

State of Emergency in Newburgh

NEWBURGH City officials have declared a state of emergency and imposed a five-day curfew in this strife-torn Orange County city, where for the second straight night Thursday gangs of youths roamed the streets, hurling rocks and molotov cocktails.

However, all was reported quiet again today as the 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew apparently began to become effective.

Many curfew violations were reported Thursday night and early today, but after about 1:30 a.m. the streets of Newburgh were reported quiet once more.

"We're on top of it. We think we have things pretty much under control," a spokesman for the city managers office declared today.

Most of the trouble Thursday night took place in the city's predominantly black northeast section.

Several persons were reported injured again Thursday night, but none seriously, according to police.

A total of at least 18 persons are said to have been injured in the two days of racial violence. At least 17 have been arrested.

... 'We think we have things pretty much under control'

Nearly 100 riot police, including city police and sheriff's deputies moved through the area after the curfew was imposed, arresting some 13 persons for curfew violations by about 1:30 a.m. according to officials.

Schools were closed for the second straight day today, and will not reopen until Tuesday at the earliest. Monday, Veterans Day, is a school holiday.

As a result of the curfew, all and restaurants are closed from 8 p.m. to 6 a.m., and streets were said to be virtually deserted early today.

Thursday, police said a molotov cocktail was hurled at the riot van, but it failed to explode. Other firebombing inci-idents were reported, and nearly a dozen autos were said to have been damaged.

The city fire department said numerous false alarms were turned in again Thursday night, but there were no major fires.

About the only things moving about on the streets early today were police cars with their red lights flashing and a few persons coming or going from work.

Two molotov cocktails were reported thrown at the post office and one at the telephone company building, but there was no damage reported in those incidents.

The violence was initially attributed to a fight which broke out between black and white high school students Monday night at a "battle between the bands."

But Police Commissioner James Taylor said the disturbances were "the culmination of a lot of different episodes and problems between black and white students building up at one time."

Harvey Burger, president of the local chapter of the NAACP, said he believed only 50 to 75 youths were responsible for the continued violence.

Lillie Howard, youth advisor to the Newburgh branch of the NAACP, said the violence was "only a symptom of a disease—and when I say disease, I mean racism." She said there was a lack of communication between blacks and whites.

Meany Charges Economic Desertion

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — AFL-CIO

President George Meany says Sens. Mike Mansfield and Hubert Humphrey are not really sincere in their calls for wage and price controls, and he challenges "brother Mansfield" to prove him wrong.

He also said the Democratic party has deserted organized labor on basic economic issues.

Meany, who says he's against wage-price controls because they limit wages but don't stop inflation, laced into Mansfield, the Senate Democratic leader, and Humphrey, D-Minn., at a news conference after an AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting Thursday.

"I challenge their sincerity..." Meany said.

"Brother Mansfield is not for mandatory price controls. If he means it, he's got the power. He would submit the legislation."

In Rome, where he was attending the conference on world hunger, Humphrey denied he had proposed wage-price controls. "Mansfield has asked for wage and price controls but I have not. I don't know why in the world he (Meany) says that," said Humphrey. "I have proposed wage and price guidelines."

"I don't say we may never need them controls," Humphrey added. "But I have made no such proposal and I don't want to argue about that."

Meany also said Tuesday's congressional elections amounted to "a vote against Richard Nixon, scandal and inflation" rather than a mandate for the Democrats, who he said were no longer the party of Labor.

"We are not getting much support from them on the bread and butter issues that effect the American people," he said.

He also said the United States must do something to regain world respect.

"To think that the U.N. would invite the Palestine Liberation Organization, a bunch of gangsters who have murdered civilians all over the world, and our 'wizard' who is secretary of state got support from only three other nations in opposing the move is terrible," Meany said.

The U.N. General Assembly recently invited the PLO, an umbrella organization representing guerrilla groups, to attend its current session.

Sugar, Meat, Poultry Up Again

By United Press International

Consumers were faced today with the certainty of even higher prices for sugar and the possibility of increases on meat and poultry.

In Washington, a White House spokesman said neither President Ford nor his advisers think the nation is in a recession in the "classic" sense. Press Secretary Ron Nessen said inflation was the major problem.

Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and other economists have said the economy is experiencing a both decline and rising prices—recession and inflation at the same time.

Prices for sugar in futures markets in New York and London soared to new highs Thursday.

The higher prices eventually will filter down to the consumer level after passing through several middle steps, including refining, transporting, packaging and wholesaling.

In New York, futures prices in sugar rose 2 cents a pound, the maximum limit on any one trading day, closing at 33.20 cents for January, 52.97 cents for March and 51.98 cents for May.

All are record highs. In the London market, sugar closed at an average of 64 to 65 cents a pound, also records. Six weeks ago, sugar was quoted in London at 30 cents a pound.

Retail sugar prices have soared 200 to 300 per cent since January, when a pound of sugar sold for about 18 cents.

Along the East Coast, sugar prices rose to 60 cents or more a pound.

King's Supermarket in Summit, N.J., was selling one-pound boxes for 63 cents and two-pound boxes for $1.15.

Record prices being bid this week on raw sugar deliveries months ahead provide no optimism for a lessening of the supermarket price.

In Washington, representatives of the beef, pork, poultry and dairy industries said that unless their industries are helped by the government farmers will reduce production, which ultimately will mean their produce will cost more.

They called for stiffer controls on export of food grain, higher milk support levels, restrictions on beef imports and expanded beef and poultry exports.

They also demand an investigation to determine if food middlemen are reaping unfair profits at the expense of farmers and consumers.

Elsewhere, more layoffs or production cutbacks were announced.

The 2,500 production employees of Maytag Co. in Newton and Hampton, Iowa, were told Thursday they would be put on a three-day week next week because of a high inventory.

In Raleigh, N.C., Frank T. Cary, chairman of IBM, told security analysts the giant computer corporation put a freeze on hiring Oct. 1 that will last through the end of the year.

'NO PARKING' CAUSES PROBLEMS ON WALL STREET

'Courtesy Tickets' in Pike Plan Area

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

While the number of parking spaces on Wall Street has decreased drastically due to the Pike Plan, the price of parking has zoomed... as high as $2 for the motorists unfortunate enough to be ticketed by zealous city police.

The east side of Wall Street from John to North Front Street has become a "no parking" zone. Getting caught costs two dollars. A lot of people are getting caught. Most of them don't like it.

"We're trying to work something out," says Glenn Stampfle, president of the Uptown Businessmen's Association and manager of Pennneys, which happens to be on the east side of Wall Street (between John and North Front).

The businessmen have been trying to work something out since the Pike Plan—which they heartily approve of—went into construction last spring.

What the businessmen (and the police) would like to do is come up with what Stampfle calls "some kind of short-stop parking."

"We thought about one-hour parking but there's very little turnover and it's difficult to police," said Stampfle.

The idea is that the police (and the merchants) would issue "courtesy tickets," friendly warnings to parkers who overstayed their welcome, figured at about five minutes.

"What we have in mind is the kind of parking where you could drop somebody off, or pick up merchandise. We want to keep it moving but we want to keep it convenient," said Stampfle.

Apparently the city agrees because, according to Stampfle, all that has to be worked out is the wording on the signs to be posted.

Police Chief Julius M. Glassman has offered to meet with a committee of the businessmen's association to finalize that aspect of the situation.

Stampfle indicated that the courtesy parking scheme could be of temporary nature.

"We're not sure what's going to work," he said. "But one thing's for sure. We've got to get it together before the holiday. The century motif of the Pike has some 500 new ones, about

"We had suggested parking meters along the street," he calls Stampfle. "But that was rejected, much to our delight."

Stampfle explained that parking meters would have detracted considerably from the turn of

in the Uptown area. The city

Judge Rules in Favor of Eight Guardsmen

Acquittal in Kent State Cases

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—

U.S. District Court Judge Frank Battisti today ordered a verdict of acquittal in the case of eight former Ohio National Guardsmen on trial in the Kent State University shootings in which four students died and nine were wounded.

Battisti said the prosecution did not prove that the defendants fired upon the students "with the specific intent to deprive them of their constitutional rights."

The eight guardsmen were on trial in Federal Court on charges of conspiring to violate the civil rights of the students who were killed and wounded by a volley of bullets fired by Ohio National Guardsmen during an anti-war demonstration on May 4, 1970.

Battisti said he "does not hold the defendants or other guardsmen or their leaders justified in discharging their weapons but justification is not relevant in this case."

Battisti said the conspiracy charge was defined by "a highly specialized statute" and the prosecution had failed to prove its case.

Battisti handed down his verdict less than an hour after court opened today, the final day in the third week of the trial.

Testifying Thursday was Dean Kahler, paralyzed from the waist down during the shootings who described the scene at the time.

"After I was struck, there was a lot of screaming and a lot of hollering," Kahler said. "Someone came over and got my parents' name and address. I was taken to Robinson Memorial Hospital in Ravenna, operated on as soon as I got there, and was hospitalized exactly three weeks."

"I suffered a spinal cord injury, which is the reason why I am in a wheelchair," he testified.

Kahler said while the Guardsmen were on the practice football field, before jogging up a hill to the area from which they fired, he threw a couple of stones at them.

He said he did not see the stones hit anyone.

The last witness Thursday, and the 32nd presented by the government, was Terry Strubbe of Washington, N.C., who was a Kent State student when he made a tape recording of the 13 seconds of gunfire in which four students were killed and nine wounded.

The tape was not played, although chief government lawyer Robert Murphy indicated he might ask it be played today.

Another witness, Howard Ruffner, a former student at KSU, testified he took three pictures about the time of the shootings which were introduced as evidence.

In cross examination, attorney Jack Schulman presented a statement which Ruffner had given to the FBI four days after the shootings, in which he described students hurling rocks and sticks at the Guardsmen.

Defense attorneys for the former Guardsmen said they would present 50 to 100 witnesses and introduce 20 to 30 more pictures as evidence.

High-ranking Ohio National Guard officers of 1970 and university officials at that time probably would be among the first witnesses called, they said.

James Rhodes, governor of Ohio at the time of the incident and who Tuesday was elected to another term, has been subpoenaed, they disclosed. But they declined to say he definitely would be called.

City Woman Robbed Uptown

KINGSTON

A terrified, Tompkins Street woman told Kingston Police today that she was forced, in a daring daylight robbery Thursday afternoon, to withdraw $1,100 from her savings account by two other women who accosted her on Wall Street.

The robbery was not reported to police until early this morning by the shaken victim.

Detectives said the victim told them she was walking along Wall Street at about 4:30 p.m. Thursday when two black women approached her and one stuck "something" in her back—apparently in an attempt to convince her that they had a weapon. It is not known whether a weapon was actually used, however.

The women ordered the victim to go into the nearby bank, Bankers Trust on Wall Street, and withdraw her money. One of the black women accompanied the victim into the bank, police were told.

After leaving the bank, the victim and the suspect who accompanied her walked to a waiting car on Green Street, where the second black woman was in the driver's seat. The victim was ordered into the vehicle, police were told.

After allegedly taking the woman's money, the robbers let her out of the vehicle on Main Street. The car used was described only as a late model brown auto with New Jersey license plates.

The terrified victim then reportedly called a cab and went home. She summoned police shortly before 1 a.m. today.

The suspects were both described as having light brown skin. One wore a purple skirt, a short brown leather jacket, and a wig. The second wore black slacks, a short coat, had long hair and apparently spoke with a Puerto Rican accent.

Miss. Cancer Link Sparks Drinking Water Study

By United Press International
Concerned by reports that drinking Mississippi River water may cause cancer, the Environmental Protection Agency is launching a study of the nation's drinking water supplies.

The EPA recently completed, but has not yet announced, a new analysis of the possibility of a link between cancer and the city drinking water drawn from the Mississippi in New Orleans.

The Environmental Defense Fund, a private group, reported Thursday there is a "significant relationship" between cancer deaths in the city and the public water supply.

Its report was based on data from a 1972 EPA study in New Orleans which up to now has got little national attention.

The private group said the two-year-old figures raise "serious questions about the safety of drinking water nationally."

"From recent studies on the Kanawha River in West Virginia; the drinking water supplies of Evansville, Ind.; Washington, D. C.; Cincinnati, Ohio; and of eight unnamed Nebraska communities, it is evident that the presence of cancer-causing substances in water is ubiquitous," the EDF report said.

"These substances escape water treatment processes designed in the latter 19th and early 20th centuries and have not been updated to keep pace with the rising levels of hazardous chemicals in water."

The group said a million people in New Orleans may be exposed to the problem, and there would be 50 fewer cancer deaths a year among white males there if the cancer-causing agents were removed from the water.

The EPA now does not have the technology to do this and lacks authority to regulate some chemicals entering rivers. A safe drinking water bill has been passed by the Senate, but its future in the House is doubtful.

The fund said some cancer-causing agents get into the water directly through industrial pollution but others are formed in the water when these pollutants are treated with chlorine, which is added to most municipal drinking water.

One cancer-causing substance formed in this way, it said, is chloroform.

The subject is getting new attention partly because Dr. Robert Harris, director of the fund, wrote a series of magazine articles several months ago about the 1972 EPA material. That prompted the analysis in New Orleans and its nationwide study.

New Orleans itself did not appear alarmed. Stuart H. Brehm Jr., director of the New Orleans Sewage and Water Board, said he could not comment on the fund's latest report because he hasn't seen it.

Brehm had disputed earlier Harris material, which he said restated two-year-old information and did not prove the city's drinking water contained enough cancer-causing agents to be harmful.

The new Harris report also stopped short of claiming proof.

"What has been demonstrated is that it is no longer feasible to take for granted the safety of our nation's drinking water," its report said.

Tom Pittari Jr., owner of Pettari's Restaurant in New Orleans said: "Yes, we serve city water and we're not worried. You hear so many reports these days—we haven't paid any attention to it. Some of my employees mentioned it tonight, but they are not particularly concerned."

Kingston Man Killed in Accident

A 30-year-old Kingston man who reportedly suffered from epilepsy was killed Thursday afternoon when the bicycle he was riding allegedly swerved into the path of a car on Route 28 in the Town of Ulster.

The dead man was identified as George Bornemann, 30, of 15 Furnace Street.

The driver of the car which was in collision with Bornemann was identified as Abram F. Molyneux, 52, of Box 55, Woodstock. Molyneux is the Ulster County attorney.

State police said Molyneux was driving west on Route 28 a short distance from Route 209 at about 4:30 p.m. when the bicycle suddenly swerved from the north shoulder of the roadway into the passing lane of the four-lane highway.

Bornemann was reportedly thrown over the hood of the car and landed in the roadway. He was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance, but was pronounced dead on arrival.

Coroner William S. Keyser ruled the death as accidental, and said the victim died of internal injuries.

No summonses were issued, state police said.

Elsewhere, three Saugerties youths were injured Thursday night in a one-car crash on Fish Creek Road in Saugerties when their auto was reportedly forced off the road by another car which fled the scene. Police are seeking the second auto.

Injured in the crash were Brad Scribner, 16, and Brian Scribner, 12, both of Old Kings Highway. Saugerties, and Richard Parsons, 16, of Route 212, Saugerties. All three were taken by Saugerties Ambulance to Kingston Hospital where they were treated and later released.

Fire Destroys Warehouse

Fire of undetermined and apparently suspicious origin destroyed a large warehouse and cooler in this southern Ulster County community Thursday night, causing a loss estimated at from $90,000 to $200,000.

Some 100 firemen from seven departments battled the blaze throughout much of the night, but were unable to save the 50 by 200-foot structure, owned by Joseph and Alex Dembroski of Plattekill.

Three firemen, identified as Robert Decker of the Plattekill Fire Department, and William Meyers and Ed Rightmeyer of the Cronomer Valley Fire Department, reportedly suffered minor injuries. All three were treated and released at St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh.

Plattekill firemen were already at their firehouse for a meeting when the call for the warehouse blaze came in at about 9:20 p.m. But even with their obviously speedy response, they found the warehouse fully engulfed on arrival.

Assistance was requested, and the Modena, Clintondale, Highland, Gardiner, Cronomer Valley and Vanilla Lake fire departments responded.

State police have been called in to investigate the blaze.

The building that was destroyed was used for the storage of apples. It was reportedly built in August of this year. Police said the building and equipment were valued at $90,000. The total loss, including the apples stored, was set at $200,000 by the owners, according to fire officials.

Judge Sirica Ruling

Nixon Tapes Will Roll on Monday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard Nixon may never testify at the Watergate cover-up trial, but his voice will soon be heard on tapes of the White House meetings which the prosecution says were at the heart of the conspiracy.

Overriding defense objections, Judge John J. Sirica ruled Thursday that 26 of the tapes were admissible as evidence in U.S. District Court — thus clearing the way for them to roll beginning Monday.

They cover the time between June 23, 1972, six days after the Watergate arrests, and April 26, 1973, near the end of the cover-up.

A grand jury named Nixon an indicted co-conspirator, but President Ford cut off all possibility of prosecution with his pardon in September.

Former Nixon campaign aide Powell A. Moore was to be back on the witness stand today.

Nervous and sometimes stammering, Moore admitted Thursday he had "withheld certain facts" from the grand jury — particularly an unsuccessful effort on the day of the bugging arrests.

He told of going to former Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst with bugging conspirator G. Gordon Liddy, and claiming that former Attorney General John N. Mitchell wanted burglar James W. McCord Jr. freed before police discovered he worked for the campaign.

"I said to Mr. Liddy that I thought it was a foolish thing to do," Moore testified. "Mr. Liddy said he agreed with me but he had his orders."

He said Kleindienst told Liddy he didn't want to discuss it and to have Mitchell call him himself.

The prospect of the former President testifying at the trial diminished even more with a report from Nixon's lawyers that he almost died following surgery for phlebitis, a vein inflammation involving blood clots.

"It is expected that the earliest time he could participate, without a serious danger to his health, in any activity requiring substantial mental or physical effort would be two to three months," according to the report, submitted by Nixon's lawyer.

Attorneys for all five defendants — Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson — tried to convince Sirica that the tapes are inadmissible because they involved illegal wiretaps.

It was a new argument and the judge refused to buy it.

"I think you have a different situation here," he said. "These tapes that are being offered as evidence in the alleged conspiracy were made at the discretion of the President and kept in the general course of business."

"I don't think Congress intended that statute to apply in a situation such as we have in this case."

BACKGROUND CHECKS WAIVED — The White House acknowledged Thursday "the usual background checks were waived" when President Ford nominated Andrew E. Gibson to head the Federal Energy Administration. It was reported that Gibson resigned last May as president of an oil transportation firm with a million-dollar severance contract. Gibson (L) and Ford are shown at time of his nomination, Oct. 29. Others are Dr. Robert Seamans (2nd L.), head of the new energy research administration, and Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton. (UPI Telephoto)

Ex-President's Pneumonia Responding to Treatment

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — The touch of pneumonia in Richard Nixon's right lung and the fluid in his left lung are responding to treatment and he is walking more as his condition improves, the ex-president's doctor says.

Dr. John Lungren said Nixon continues to improve but he is still in serious condition 16 days after hospitalization and 10 days after urgent surgery, when he almost died of postoperative shock.

The "small area of pneumonitis in his right lung is responding well to antibiotic therapy and is resolving,"

Lungren said in a statement released by Long Beach Memorial Hospital. "The fluid in the left lung is becoming smaller."

Lungren said Nixon is taking brief walks in his hospital room, and "we're gradually increasing his activity."

He also said a cardiologist monitoring tube has been disconnected because Nixon has shown no sign of heart trouble throughout the crisis.

In a four-page affidavit filed with U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, Nixon attorney Herbert Miller said it is expected that Nixon will remain hospitalized at least another 10 days to two weeks.

Nixon's doctors and the hospital have repeatedly refused to say when Nixon could leave, calling his condition too serious for speculation.

The lawyer noted that Nixon's visits with his wife and daughters are limited to five minutes an hour because he "is very weak and easily fatigued."

Sirica has several options for dealing with the problem caused by the absence of Nixon, a key witness for both prosecution and defense.

The judge has said he was considering sending a court appointed medical team to examine Nixon, or he could move the trial to California briefly, or have Nixon give videotaped testimony that could be shown to the jurors.

Several Races Still Among the Undecided

By United Press International

Several races remain undecided in Tuesday's elections, including the Alaska governorship, a Senate seat from North Dakota and one congressional seat each in Maine and Nebraska.

Alaska Gov. William Egan, a Democrat, led his Republican opponent Jay S. Hammond by just 673 votes in a close race with 418 of 434 precincts reporting.

The totals were 38,069 to 37,396, but more than 7,000 absentee ballots and several remote precincts remained to be counted.

Hammond has challenged all of the absentee ballots and wants his campaign staff to personally check each signature with the signature on the ballot application — a process that could take days.

The absentee vote was expected to favor Egan.

In a see-saw battle, veteran North Dakota Sen. Milton R. Young, 76, led former Democratic Governor William L. Guy by just 32 votes. Some absentee ballots remain uncounted and a statewide recount was expected to take several weeks.

In Maine, incumbent Rep. Peter Kyros, a Democrat, plans to ask for a recount after his apparent defeat for a fifth term by Republican David Emery.

Attorneys for Kyros and Emery were scheduled to meet with Deputy Secretary of State Peter Damborg to discuss the situation.

Kyros said he would ask for the recount "since in one case I am only losing by 142 votes."

The National Election Service reported Kyros losing by 142 votes but revised figures to 248 votes. Another computer report had Kyros losing by 800 votes but that was revised to 596 votes.

The director of the Nebraska Election Service, E.E. Makiesky, said it would take at least a week before some 6,107 absentee and disabled ballots are counted in the state's 3rd district race.

Republican Mrs. Haven Smith led Democrat Wayne Ziebarth by 828 votes with 832 of 836 precincts reporting.

"It's going to be a week or more," he said. "Some of them are counting now and some indicate it will be into next week, perhaps as late as Friday, before they complete the count."

In another tight race, Rep. Louis C. Wyman, R-N.H., predicted he would hold onto his Senate seat despite unofficial returns from the National Election Service that cut his victory margin over Democrat John Durkin to a mere 290 votes.

In Oklahoma, Democrat Ed Edmondson, who was narrowly defeated by Sen. Henry Bellmon, has challenged Bellmon's election both to the Senate and the Oklahoma Election Board.

Edmondson said voting machines in Tulsa County did not have a lever or button to permit voters to vote a straight party ticket.

TULIP PLANTING — With an eye toward the 1976 American Bicentennial celebration, George Christianson and Paula Hutton plant some of the estimated 8,000 tulips that will line the yard and walkways of the historic Old Dutch Church on Main Street. A number of church volunteers spent an entire weekend recently removing the old bulbs and planting the new ones. The flowers will blossom next year, but will reach their most colorful stage just in time for the Bicentennial activities. (Freeman photo by Carey)

Woodstock Vote Termed 'Steady'

WOODSTOCK cost estimates remains essentially the same, the Town Board could then vote to establish a day of a three-day referendum on whether the Town Board should proceed with a final engineering report on the proposed $2.5 million sewage collection and treatment system. Voting was described as "steady," but Supervisor Verne May said any assessment of the turnout was difficult since there are two more days in which town residents can express their opinions on the issue. Voters also must be checked against town tax rolls, since voting is restricted to property owners, he noted.

The three-day advisory referendum was called to give town officials an indication of sentiment on the controversial sewage proposals. The final decision is not binding on the town board either way.

One purpose of the engineering report is to give some indication of the accuracy of the estimated $2.5 million cost. If the town's taxpayers,

Fuchsberg Wins Appeals Seat

By United Press International Jacob Fuchsberg, a controversial Manhattan trial lawyer whose candidacy was opposed by the state and city bar associations, rode a steady gain of Democratic votes in Nassau County to win a seat on the state Court of Appeals.

Fuchsberg's win appeared certain when a block of Long Island votes were reported late Thursday. The new tally meant: defeat for acting Court of Appeals Judge Harold A. Stevens in the race Tuesday for a seat on the state's highest court.

With 13,180 of 13,757 election districts reporting in the Court of Appeals race, unofficial returns showed Fuchsberg with more than a 56,000-vote lead, receiving 2,264,438 votes on the Democratic line to 2,208,513 for Stevens, who was running on the Republican, Conservative and Liberal tickets.

Appellate Division Justice Lawrence H. Cooke of Monticello won one of the two available seats on the bench with 2,399,420 votes on the Democratic and Liberal lines.

Stevens, the only black man on the court, had taken a slim 4,000-vote lead over Fuchsberg earlier Thursday as votes continued to trickle in from upstate Republican areas.

But a block of 385 late-reporting Nassau County precincts — presumably centered in Long Beach — gave Fuchsberg 94,000 of 108,000 votes.

Fuchsberg, rebuffed by voters a year ago in his bid for election as chief judge of the Court of Appeals, had been rated "not qualified" by both the State Bar Association and the Association of the Bar of the City of New York.

Both bar organizations had taken exception to Fuchsberg's spending policies in the 1973 campaign and argued that he did not have experience on the bench.

Lawmakers to Consider Mental Health Center

By LYNN MULVANEY KINGSTON

A $1,037,625 bond issue for the construction of a new Mental Health Center will come up for approval at the Nov. 14 meeting of the Ulster County Legislature to be held at 8 p.m. in the County Office Building.

The resolution proposed by both the Majority Leader of the Legislature Ernest J. Gardner (R-Dist. 5) and Minority Leader Dr. Gerald P. Gorman (D-City) would provide for the grading and improvement of the site which is to be donated by Benedictine Hospital; the construction of the building and the equipment and machinery necessary. The maximum estimated cost is $1,037,625. Authorization is sought for the issuance of $985,000 in serial bonds and $52,625 in capital notes.

If the measure should meet with success, then the county board will vote on whether to accept the land, which is adjacent to Benedictine, and will consider announcing its intent to build the facility to the state which will share in the cost of the construction of the building.

I is also anticipated that the county board will authorize a contract with architect Thomas H. Clancey, who previously provided cost estimates, for the purpose of preparing details plans and specifications prior to the letting of bids for the construction of the building.

The merger of the present Ulster County Mental Health Commission and the Ulster County Drug Commission will also come up for approval by the Legislature.

The Public Health Committee and its chairman Brian R. White (R-Dist. 8) have recommended that the two agencies be combined. They point out that the two commissions have, for some time, been under one authority. They feel that by so doing they can effectively and efficiently maximize the provisions of drug abuse and mental health services to citizens of the county at minimal cost to the county and wish no effect on state and federal funding.

The proposal also calls for abolishing the post of administrative director of the Drug Commission and creating in its stead the post of Assistant Director of Mental Health Administration.

With the new 1975 budget for Ulster County due to be unveiled in coming weeks, the board will set a date for a public hearing on the budget for Dec. 3 at 7 p.m. in the Legislative Chambers of the County Office Building.

Two more public hearings regarding reapportionment will also be set for Dec. 2 at 7:45 a.m. and 8 p.m. in the Legislative Chambers.

Reduction of Terms Ruled Out of Order

By CARL GRAHAM TILLSON

Fred Hofbauer's July 29 resolution to change terms of Kingston Board of Education members from five to three years set off a long discussion and was finally referred to the Communications Committee for study. Hofbauer fared even worse at Thursday night's board meeting in Tillson Elementary School — his attempt to reintroduce the measure was ruled out of order.

Joseph Feraca, board president, ruled against Hofbauer despite his (Hofbauer's) contention was "within legal limits," noting that Hofbauer had been instructed to consult with Charles Gaffney, school board attorney, before reporting back in November, and saying he had failed to do so. Feraca also said that Hofbauer had failed to consider a series of modifications suggested by board member James T. Owens in July.

The board called for another report in January, 1975, so it can take action in time for the next school board election in May if the resolution is passed.

Owens did better with his resolution calling for approval of the concept of Ulster County BOCES renting the Barclay Knitting Mills building in Port Ewen for a classroom building and encouraging BOCES to hold a countywide referendum for construction or purchase of permanent facilities. The resolution passed unanimously after Owens said that the Barclay rental would consolidate all BOCES teaching in one location and that it was important for BOCES to have the support of all component districts for its actions.

Mrs. Doris Mulvin, chairman of the Student Services Committee, told the audience of about 50 persons that the district was having problems with drivers passing stopped school buses, especially the smaller van-type buses.

The board passed her resolution calling for study of vehicle statutes by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles and for changes in the rulings that would call for more adequate markings for small buses.

Hofbauer asked Louis A. Salzmänn, superintendent of schools, what was being done about beatings at Kingston High School, reported over a Kingston radio station. Salzmänn said that in both instances parents had been encouraged to prosecute but had refused to do so.

"There's not a thing we can do unless someone is willing to stand up and make a statement," Salzmänn said. "We cannot operate on innuendo."

In other action, the board:

- Extended the contract of

Kenneth E. Hyatt Jr., assistant superintendent for pupil personnel services, three years beyond the Lake Katrine PTO and 18 its June 30, 1975 expiration date. heads of the Meagher PTO.

- Awarded four transportation contracts to Ethan Allen Enterprises for a total of $4,795.
- Awarded a contract to E. and D. Contractors to paint the interior of Kingston High School for $25,140, the lowest of four bids received.
- Accepted gifts of 12 head-sets, a filmstrip projector and five filmstrip previewers from the Lake Katrine PTO and 18 its June 30, 1975 expiration date. heads of the Meagher PTO.

- Transferred $2,000 from the contingency fund for an investigation of the data processing and needs of the district.
- Voted to close grades 7 and 8 on days when high school students are taking Regents' examinations.

Saugerties Town Budget... Taxes Explained

By TIM SCHUSTER

SAUGERTIES: If you live in the Town of Saugerties outside the village, you may expect to pay about one-third more in local real estate taxes in 1975 than you did this year.

It was announced at Thursday night's three-hour-plus town budget hearing that the estimated rate for those residents per thousand dollars assessed valuation would climb from $33 to $43. Those living within village limits will see a slight decrease in the tax rate, to $12.35. Many reasons for the hikes are the same ones people all over the nation have been receiving in similar circumstances—large scale inflation on materials and an effort to keep public employees at least even with cost of living increases in their wages.

Total appropriations for the town in 1975 is earmarked for $1.15 million, with $684,434 of that amount to be raised by local taxation. The budget must be voted on by Nov. 15, said town attorney Richard Overbaugh. No date has been set for the meeting.

Comments from residents were not germane to the budget in many instances, with board members taking the time to explain procedures. The general tenor of questions from several persons was one of mild panic attributable to hard economic times, and the salary raises were the focal point of much discussion, even though they accounted for a minuscule percentage of the budget.

One man even complained because the Central Hudson bill to the town had not gone up in two years, stating that this fact was suspect.

Another gripped because children in the recreation program were not charged expenses. This brought a generally negative reaction from board members and audiences alike, all of whom upheld the town recreation program (accounting for about five per cent of the budget), in high esteem.

Councilman Bud Smith said that the $36,000 for recreation provided a great deal more per person than the City of Kingston's recreation budget of nearly ten times that amount.

Some of the raises that provoked attention were these: councilmen will get a $500 raise to $3,000 each; the supervisor a $500 raise to $8,000; the town clerk $600 raise to $7,900; and deputy clerk a $900 raise to $7,100; superintendent of highways a $1,500 raise to $13,500.

Supervisor A. Michael Schovel explained, "People are demanding more of public officials. We have costs other than what you might see. I honestly think for years this town board has been underpaid." He noted that the board averages about 50 meetings a year alone, plus each member is directly responsible for a function of government.

The police budget is taking a big jump, one that Councilman Frank Hallion said will probably be the last upward overhaul for a few years. The police budget is up $51,000 from $105,418 in 1974 to a projected $156,606 for next year. Part of this is attributable to about $30,000 in salary and other personal service increases; another part is due to switching about $20,000 from the public safety category to highway equipment from federal revenue sharing funds.

There was some complaint about duplication of police services with state, county, town, and village police, countered by the argument that state and county police are understaffed and town police perform many necessary functions.

An aside: the town is buying riot helmets for the first time for the patrolmen. Hallion said this was "long overdue, just in case of trouble."

Welfare costs have risen dramatically, said board members, with the home relief budget rising from $12,000 to $30,000. Access is also maintained to $20,000 in the contingency fund. Schovel said that most of this is mandated by the county, and gave the opinion that only 20 per cent of those receiving public assistance through the program in Saugerties deserve it.

The town improved eight miles of highway this year, and expects to complete another 13 miles in 1975. Road materials went up 150 per cent.

New Paltz Board Kills Pay Raises

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ: The Town of New Paltz budget for 1975 had its preliminary hearing Thursday, with the town board revealing that it had changed its mind and killed the pay raises it had voted for itself and town department heads, and a village trustee charging that the budget was padded and village taxpayers victimized.

The 1975 preliminary budget is up, and, money needed to run the town's burgeoning number of special districts, tops the $1 million figure for the first time in the town's history.

The total proposed 1975 budget stands at $1,028,646, and at $870,678 without the special districts. The money needed for the special districts, and there are now eight of them listed on the budget, comes from taxes levied only within the districts themselves.

The budget adopted for 1974 called for $494,371 to be raised by taxes. The preliminary 1975 budget calls for $642,762 to be raised by taxes, $527,247 to be raised by taxes without the special districts. Supervisor Theodore Lasher said the budget increases would probably mean an extra $7 per thousand of assessed valuation on New Paltz tax bills for 1975. The 1974 tax rates were $162.90 per thousand for town residents, and $103.51 for those living in the village.

NEW PALTZ (2) The town board had originally advertised the budget with the raises included, but killed the raises before the Thursday night hearing.

In a "message from the supervisor" to town residents, Lasher pointed to the high cost of living and the need to keep the tax rate down, and said, "Therefore there are no raises in salaries of the elected officials and department heads."

The town's clerical help will get the raises set by a previously arrived at schedule. Village Trustee John Logan voiced a number of specific criticisms of the budget, as well as a major general one. He said the board was understating revenues, overstating appropriations, and creating "a very, very large slush fund." Logan said the slush fund looked to be of about $109,000 to him.

"Not true," said Lasher. "It is (the big slush fund) is in the budget. I'd like to know where it is."

Logan also said the padding of appropriations in the general fund section, which is paid for by both town and village residents, was causing village taxpayers to subsidize activities mainly benefiting people outside the village. This too was denied, though it was agreed to look into the allocation of one salary in the budget.

Resident Louis Fagon said that since there had been such large budget surpluses in the past, the town should do away with the $30,000 in contingency funds it has, and reduce the tax bills.

No action was taken on adopting a budget.

For the coming year, Lasher said he recommended some renovation of the former Legion Hall for town offices; continued action on the traffic problem; more highway improvement; expanded sewer facilities; better recreation facilities, including town-designated bikeways; and staying within the town budget.

Is It Waning?

What seemed to be a lessening in the drug culture in Ulster County may prove only to be a false hope. The arrest of six students at Onteora High School, following the bagging of a major drug pusher earlier in the week, is serious warning that some of our youths are still involved in drugs. Cocaine, LSD and marijuana were the narcotics involved in the latest incident, with authorities revealing that one student claimed profits of $1,000 a week from his racket.

The Onteora group was brought to bay through the efforts of a state trooper undercover agent, posing as a student and making the appropriate buys. Also the cooperation of the school authorities did much to end the drug business there.

But what about the rest of the county? Is it true that the kids are using some savvy and staying way from narcotics? School officials, parents and many law enforcement officers have all recently expressed opinions that the 'in' thing of being on drugs was on the way out. They still may be right—hopefully they are—and the Onteora incident may just be an isolated one. But it is enough to provide warning to all parents that what was thought to be a waning problem may still be very much with us.

Fulbright's Appraisal

Somehow the world has muddled through the worst of what Sir Winston Churchill foretold in his "Iron Curtain" speech at Fulton, Mo., in 1946. The wartime leader of the British, just rejected by the voters, spoke with profound pessimism, declaring that "from Stettin in the Baltic to Trieste in the Adriatic, an iron curtain has descended across the continent."

This was indeed the case. The descent of that curtain heralded the cold war which was to plague East and West for many years. But as noted above, the world did somehow pass through that difficult period without another global war, and now East and West are tentatively defining the boundaries of detente.

This is one of the few optimistic thoughts which come to mind as a defense against the pessimism in Sen. J. William Fulbright's address from the same platform at Westminster College in Fulton. Though the senator's assessment of the world's condition is gloomy, there is still comfort in man's past ability to endure and survive.

It is this very aspect of human nature that was the focal point of Fulbright's conclusion. "History casts no doubt at all," he said, "on the ability of human beings to deal rationally with their problems, but the greatest doubt on their will to do so. The signals of the past are thus clouded and ambiguous, suggesting hope but not confidence in the triumph of reason. With nothing to lose in any event, it seems well worth a try."

What are these problems with which we must deal rationally? For one, the Middle East. Unless that "time bomb" is defused, said the senator, there will be "a new war, a new oil boycott, and possibly consequences therefrom ranging from another great depression to Armageddon itself."

Fulbright sees much of the problem as stemming from the huge oil price increase since the Israeli-Arab war a year ago. If the resultant inflationary trend is not arrested, he believes, oil-consuming countries will soon exhaust their credit, "giving rise to economic collapse and political upheaval."

To prevent this, Fulbright said, there must be a rational Middle East settlement to avert a more violent and protracted war than before, coupled with austerity here at home: "We cannot blame the oil producers for the irresponsible and rapacious extravagance of our vaunted 'way of life.'" It is tough but honest talk by the man who is leaving the Senate after 15 years as head of that body's Foreign Relations Committee.

Brigitte at 40

There was a time—was it 15 years or so past?—when Brigitte Bardot aroused sentiments of mingled envy and jealousy in millions of women who viewed her in films. These sentiments have been tempered by the passage of time which has brought the French bombshell to the mature age of 40. Even so, her power to elicit envy among others of her sex is still considerable.

For it seems that the redoubtable Brigitte's weight and measurements remain the same as when she was 20, "and my body hasn't changed that much since then." Worse yet, she has not achieved this by any heroic regimen of diet—or so, at any rate, she claims: "I adore potatoes and noodles . . . I drink red wine and everything is O.K."

These are the sort of tidings that breed frustration in the suburbs. Noodles, yeast! Potatoes! Red wine! And the waistline of a 20-year-old who used to wow the natives before the era of all-out permissiveness in films. It's a little hard to take on one of those days when nothing seems to go right and a glance in the mirror tells a gal something went awry in the battle of the bulge.

Berry's World

"You Walkers ought to try living on a fixed income, THESE DAYS!"

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — A grim, new mood is developing in Washington that military intervention may be necessary to bring down the price of oil and save the West from economic ruin. Until the last few weeks, military action was considered out of the question. But the mood definitely is changing, as the consequences of the oil gouge have become more devastating. Oil is the lifeblood of the industrial West. A growing number of policymakers now agree that the United States cannot stand by while a few recklessly greedy potentates interfere with the normal flow of our lifeblood. Already, the oil price squeeze has driven Italy to the brink of bankruptcy. Other Western stalwarts, such as England and Japan, have been rocked by high oil prices. Unless the prices are quickly reduced, economic chaos will spread throughout the West.

The repercussions, top policymakers have told us, would affect the "vital interests" of the United States. The use of the term "vital interests" is ominous. For it is understood that the United States will go to war, if necessary, to protect its "vital interests."

One important policymaker, in confidential talks with us, compared the oil gouge to Pearl Harbor. In fact, he assessed the economic damage as far greater than what resulted from the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

The Arab oil rulers, he insisted, are engaged in overt economic warfare. They have used oil as a weapon to demand political concessions. They have even imposed wartime secrecy upon their oil strategy meetings, he said.

In the backrooms, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has opposed even hinting at military action against the Arabs. He has confidence that the Arab moderates, particularly Egypt's President Anwar Sadat and Saudi Arabia's King Faisal, can restore oil prices to a let-live level. U.S. military intervention, he has warned, could set the entire Middle East on fire.

President Ford, while going along with Kissinger, has taken a harder line in the strategy sessions. Our sources say the President is willing to use U.S. military power as a last resort to prevent the oil cartel from causing disastrous economic and political dislocations in the West.

The policy experts don't believe the Soviet Union would interfere with a U.S. military operation in the Middle East. Even Kissinger agrees, according to our sources, that the superpowers recognize one another's "vital interests."

Just as the United States didn't try to stop the Soviet Union from invading Czechoslovakia, Kissinger believes the Soviets wouldn't likely risk a nuclear war with the United States over Middle East oil.

The secret speculation is that Libya would be the most likely target of U.S. intervention. Libya's radical strongman, Muammar el-Qaddafi, isn't popular with his Arab neighbors or the Russians. They would be less perturbed over an attack upon Libya, therefore, than any other Arab oil state.

It was also the fiery Qaddafi who triggered the oil price rise. In late 1971, he moved in on Occidental Petroleum, a U.S. company, which depended upon Libya for its crude. His squeeze tactics were so successful that by early 1974 he had boosted the price of Libyan oil from $1.50 to $16 a barrel.

His tactics encouraged other oil potentates to band with him. If he were singled out for U.S. retaliation, they might once again get the message.

CIA sources have suggested that the simplest way to knock the props out from under Qaddafi would be to engineer a coup and replace him with a leader more friendly to the West.

One secret report tells of a discussion between a CIA agent and an Occidental official about putting up $50 million for Qaddafi's assassination. High officials have assured us, however, that the $50 million talk was nothing but barroom banter and has never been given serious consideration.

Pentagon sources have pointed out that Libya's oil fields are reasonably isolated and, therefore, could be seized, sealed off and protected with relative ease. This should take no more than two Marine divisions, one source estimated.

There is also talk in the backrooms about giving Israel the green light to take over Kuwait's oil fields. The secret assessment is that no combination of Arab armies could stop an Israeli march upon Kuwait.

Perhaps significantly, the United States has suddenly started to rush arms shipments to Israel. In some cases, the U.S. military's own stocks have been depleted to make the weapons available to Israel.

Secret military studies show, however, that the oil could be bottled inside the Persian Gulf by sinking a couple of tankers in the narrow straits at the mouth. The tankers couldn't get out of the Gulf without coming within range of hidden Arab artillery.

The stakes, however, are high. Kuwait has the world's third largest oil reserves, with a known supply of 64 billion barrels. Only Saudi Arabia and the Soviet Union have more oil. And Libya, with 26 billion barrels under its sands, ranks seventh.

Oil Stakes Running High

"We Seem to Have Quite a Few Pandora's Boxes, Henry!"

Inside Report

Sawhill's Going

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — When it became clear his trenchant public advocacy of a new federal gasoline tax had doomed him as Federal Energy administrator, John Sawhill had a plaintive question for a friend: hadn't Bill Simon been an even more persistent booster of the gas tax?

Indeed he had. As Deputy Secretary of the Treasury, as Sawhill's predecessor at the Federal Energy Administration (FEA) and now as Secretary of the Treasury, William Simon has stubbornly advocated a gas tax to cut consumption. But his advocacy has been confined to private administration councils or in the press as an unidentified "Treasury spokesman" — not in person on NBC's "Today" show as in Sawhill's case.

That failure to come to grips with Washington reality explains Sawhill's demise. Although he is now lionized by the liberals as a martyr fired for daring to take unpopular positions, that was not the root cause of his sacking. Future energy officials may survive with positions identical to Sawhill's if they maneuver more skillfully through the Washington jungle. In other words, it was style not substance that destroyed Sawhill.

Sawhill was a sympathetic figure inside the Federal Energy bureaucracy if only for his enemies — particularly big oil's well-paid lobbyists. "The worst elements in this city conspired against him," says one knowing official.

More important, Sawhill's insistence on measures to reduce U.S. fuel consumption to reduce imports is regarded within the administration as essential to any sane energy policy — ignored by President Ford at the nation's peril. Having mastered the energy field, ex-financier Sawhill quickly arrived at the proper policy.

That he flunked his course in the Washington quicksand was clear last April when, shortly after succeeding Simon, Sawhill joined John Gardner's Common Cause. The White House was appalled that a high official appointed by then President Nixon should join Nixon's arch-enemy.

Sawhill quit Common Cause as quickly as he had joined it, but the damage was done. Not only was suspicion planted deeply in the administration but a flaw in his own tactics was revealed: he was trying to strengthen his position with liberals and congressional Democrats while neglecting his exposed flank in the administration.

The point of no-return between Sawhill and the administration really came a few weeks before the celebrated "Today" show of Oct. 2. Henry M. Jackson of Washington as chairman of the Senate Interior Committee submitted written interrogatories to administration officials, beginning with this loaded question: did the administration have a plan to halt or reverse the rise in world oil prices? All other officials ducked, but not Sawhill. He answered, honestly and concisely: no.

Jackson, ever alert for an opening in the administration's energy policy, attacked. Top officials particularly Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, were outraged at Sawhill. "The feeling was," confides one official sympathetic to Sawhill, "that Sawhill was making Brownie points with Scoop Jackson at the expense of Ford, Kissinger and everybody else." Buttrressing that feeling was the fact that Sawhill submitted his answers to Jackson without distributing them in the administration.

Even before the blundered by publicly advocating the gasoline tax after President Ford publicly rejected it, Sawhill's position had become untenable. Irritations between him and Simon ripened into a feud (helped by Sawhill's cutting remarks in private about Simon). Worse yet, Sawhill had no relationship whatever with the new energy czar, Interior Secretary Rogers Morton.

By mid-October, Mr. Ford had decided to sack Sawhill. What delayed the execution was the inability to find a successor (unbelievably, feelers were put out to Interior Under Secretary John Whitaker, the old Nixon advance man, who wisely rejected them). Sawhill's aides at FEA took advantage of the delay to seek support from congressional liberals. The reaction: zero. While critically damaging himself downtown, Sawhill had failed to build a loyal following on Capitol Hill.

Yet, Mr. Ford surely will have to swallow the bitter medicine ruthlessly prescribed by John Sawhill. That means much tougher conservation measures including import restrictions. Ultimately, it may well mean that hated gasoline tax.

Consequently, the early conduct by ex-Federal Maritime administrator Andrew Gibson as Sawhill's successor is being viewed with both hope and apprehension. In contrast to Sawhill, Gibson sits through meetings silent as a sphinx. That could mean he will take the course of non-resistance to the oil lobbyists and their allies in government. However, there is also hope that such silence means he will follow Sawhill's correct policies, but with more discretion, tact and even success.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Bert Sheehan's Sheet of Glass

Queens was a bit out of the way. I took a cab and consulted an old address book. The house was two-family, pale brick. There was a low, neatly trimmed hedge, a toupee of lawn, and fancy curtains in the windows. A woman was passing with a baby carriage.

"Tell me," I said, "do the Sheehans still live here?" Her eyes were bold with suspicion. "Why don't you ring the bell and find out?" I shrugged. "Never mind. I used to work with Bert. I'm on my way to the airport."

She took a deep breath. "They still live there. Old. They don't go out much. Quiet couple. . . . No children?" "None. Keep to themselves, mostly."

I got back into the taxi. "Kennedy," I said, "domestic side." I looked through the dirty back window for a last glance. Bert and I could have had quite a talk. But there is a time for that and, among men, there is a time when it is too late.

When I was a kid, Bert was the best troubleshooter on any newspaper in New York. He could dig up a story, write it, be assignment editor on the city desk, fill in as a rewrite man, make up page dummies — everything but copy desk and wire desk.

We got along. Bert was black Irish, jet hair, blue eyes, a half-size nose which looked as though it had been broken, a man dominated by laughter, sympathy and flying fists. Above all, he treated everybody — even the old man who swept yesterday's newspapers from the floor — fairly.

As a cub reporter, I admired Bert Sheehan and tried to cultivate him. No dice. He was friendly, full of good tips, but I felt a plate of sheet glass between us.

He was that way. I found, with everyone. His attitude was wide open and friendly, but he didn't have a close friend. There was a rumor around the office that Bert Sheehan lived with his widowed mother in an old brick railroad flat on the East Side.

No one could prove it. The permanent left-handed smile died when anyone asked, "What's it to you?" Bert would say, "He was single, but he never went out on a date."

Nor did he drink. If he was coaxed, he might stop into Sam's for two beers — one coming from you, one going your way — but that wrapped it up. He did his work, laughed at old jokes, took his pay, and disappeared.

The office had three phone operators and hired a fourth. She was a stout blonde with alabaster skin and her hair was piled up like swirls of soft ice cream. She was Tess, and the word was that she had been married a year when her husband was killed in a railroad accident.

Bert Sheehan fell. It was no secret. When he disappeared between editions, look in the operators' room. They sat in high-back swivel chairs. Bert was leaning on the back of Tess's chair, whispering. Everybody thought it was great. At long last, romance had come to Sheehan. The editors said, "Shhh. Don't mention it." And yet, something was wrong. I could see that sheet of glass between them.

I went on for years. On and off, Bert seldom took Tess to dinner, never took her to his home, and sent little cones of violets twice a week. He was getting gray. Tess built a wall of her own.

I left the paper. Now and then, fleetingly, Bert and Tess came to mind. I wondered what the mystery could be. He was obviously deeply committed. And yet, at age 45, he was no closer to marriage than he had been at 18.

On an April day, he asked the managing editor for a week off. "Why, Bert?" "No whys," he said toughly. "Just yes or no." "You got it, but . . ." Sheehan had left. He returned to work subdued. No questions asked, no answers volunteered. After Christmas, he asked for four days more. He got them.

When he returned, he looked old and drawn. He worked; he didn't laugh. And yet, when spring came and the anemic poplars sprouted buds along the curb, he brightened. He took a deep breath, went into the operators' room and said brusquely, "How about dinner tonight, Tess?"

The other operators tried to kick her into saying yes. That night he offered Tess his arm as they left the building. In the morning, she showed up red-eyed from crying.

She told the operators the story of Bert Sheehan. His father died when he was young. His mother — old-fashioned Irish — had Bert and a baby girl who was a Mongoloid. The old lady refused to part with the baby.

Bert stuck with his mother. The child grew up big, fat and empty. Old lady Sheehan dressed and undressed her; Bert carried her to and from the bathroom. The kid had died at 31. The mother died at Christmas.

He had given up his life for them. It wouldn't have been right for me to stop and talk over old times . . .

Steingut Vows Albany Changes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Saying it would have a special meaning to follow in his father's footsteps as speaker of the Assembly, Stanley Steingut says he plans to "completely restructure... the state legislature and its committee system."

Unless there is an unexpected struggle for power within the Democratic party, Steingut will be the next speaker of the Assembly following the ouster of the Republican majority in the general election.

"We're going to completely restructure the legislature and its committee system," Steingut told UPI. "Our aim will be opening up the legislature to the public and removing secrecy."

The Brooklyn legislator, who has been careful to strengthen his position within the Democratic party while serving as Assembly minority leader, is not expected to face a challenge for the top position in the 150-member body.

In 1935, his father, Irwin, was speaker and the younger Steingut has privately talked of following in those footsteps. Steingut said the speaker's post "is something very sentimental because of my father," but added, "It would be very satisfying, in any event, to work to improve the legislature."

The Brooklyn Democrat came close to becoming speaker in the 1960s, but lost when party squabbles allowed Anthony J. Travia to form an alliance with Republicans and became speaker.

The leadership structure of both houses of the legislature was drastically reshaped by the outcome of Tuesday's vote.

The most stunning upset of the election was the defeat of Assembly Majority Leader John E. Kingston of Westbury by Democrat Angelo Orazio.

A native of Niagara Falls, Kingston was first elected to the Assembly in 1959 and has been majority leader since 1969.

The current Assembly speaker, Perry B. Duryea of Montauk, will likely return to the minority side of the aisle — a position he first held in 1966. It is doubtful that rank and file GOP assemblymen will challenge Duryea's leadership role.

In the Senate, where Republicans narrowly clung to their plurality, Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson of Binghamton will become his party's most powerful elected official in the state. In previous years, the less flamboyant Anderson had been overshadowed by Duryea and former Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The leadership of Senate Democrats will fall to a new figure following the defeat of veteran incumbent Joseph Zaretzki of Manhattan. Zaretzki, who lost the Democratic nomination in the September primary, was soundly defeated Tuesday when he ran as the Liberal party candidate.

Brooklyn Democrat Jeremiah B. Bloom is considered the frontrunner to succeed Zaretzki. Bloom is ranking minority member of the powerful Senate Finance Committee.

It appears likely that Albert H. Blumenthal will become the new majority leader in the Assembly. The Manhattan lawmaker had been considered too brash by some fellow Democrats but has shifted to a more moderate stance in recent years.

One obstacle in Blumenthal's way, however, is the ill will stirred up during last year's New York City mayoral race. Blumenthal, who has been deputy minority leader in the Assembly, irked some party regulars by his strong attacks against Mayor Abraham D. Beame in the Democratic primary.

The Democratic takeover of the Assembly will also mean the ouster of the Republican chairmen of the Assembly's 21 standing committees.

The standing committees play a major role in the type and form of bills presented to the legislature for action. The impact of the changes will be felt throughout state government.

A Lesson to Be Learned

By WILLIAM S. STEVENS
United Press International

The lesson to be learned from the New York State election is that it's not wise to fool around with the voters when they are in a vindictive mood.

Proof of the truth of that thought was driven home by the appallingly low turnout of five million voters and the disaster that befell Republican incumbents.

The 60 per cent response from the state's 8.3 million eligible voters was the lowest in more than 70 years—falling far short of the 75 per cent average turnout in the last three gubernatorial elections.

If that is not enough to prove many people are tuned out, turned off and tired of the same old "business-as-usual" routine, the attrition rate among GOP incumbents should serve as evidence enough to convince any jury.

The Republican calamity started right at the top, where GOP Gov. Malcolm Wilson — a "shoo in" in the spring — got clobbered by about 800,000 votes by Democrat Hugh L. Carey, a little-known Brooklyn congressman in the spring.

Analysis

Three GOP congressmen seeking re-election were bounced and Democrats claimed two vacant seats previously held by Republicans. In the Assembly, 71 GOP incumbents tried for the brass ring again and 16 were knocked off the merry-go-round. In the state Senate, four incumbents were told to unpack their bags.

Sen. Jacob Javits was re-elected but by a sharply reduced margin over Democrat Ramsey Clark, who campaigned on a call for integrity in government. People laughed at first but a lot of them voted for that ideal.

The most obvious reasons for the voter resentment wreaked on Republicans were the Watergate scandal, President Ford's pardon of Richard M. Nixon and former Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's penchant for giving little gifts to aides while in office — about $2 million in little gifts.

The voters took out their frustrations on Republican targets because the scandals were associated with Republicans.

The incumbents were decent men, no better or no worse than fellow office seekers; and none were associated with the seamy doings in Washington and elsewhere.

But as one reporter asked, "since none of the people who were involved are running for anything, who else can they (the voters) take it out on?"

The question brought a sharp retort from Wilson, who labeled it "silly."

The angry response by the governor was one of the few live moments in the campaign.

Sawyer Band... Congratulations

SAUGERTIES

Gov. Malcolm Wilson and U.S. Senator Jacob Javits have sent letters of congratulation to the Sawyer Marching Band as the group prepares for its week-long trip to Florida.

The band will leave Saugerties High School for Florida on Tuesday, and will perform at Disney World on Thursday. The rest of the Southern trip will be devoted to tours and sightseeing.

Wilson's letter, addressed to band director David Keen, reads: "Once again it is my distinct privilege to greet the members of the Sawyer Marching Band as they prepare to depart for Disney World. Last February, I expressed the great pride we all have for the band as it prepared to leave for the Winter Carnival in Quebec. Now these outstanding young musicians and New Yorkers will once again represent our state in a musical program outside of New York. I am confident that under your direction these Saugerties High School Students will once again demonstrate why they are 'the pride of Saugerties' and 'the pride of New York State.' I wish all of the band members and their loyal supporters in the community a successful and memorable trip. My congratulations also to the officers and faculty of the high school for their outstanding band."

Javits' letter cited the band's "enthusiasm and professional skill" and termed the invitation to perform at Disney World "a great honor and one which I know you well deserve."

Film on Attica Slated Nov. 12

POUGHKEEPSIE

The prize winning color documentary film "Attica" will be shown for the first time in the Poughkeepsie area Nov. 12 at the Unitarian Fellowship hall, 67 South Randolph Avenue.

Sponsor of the 7:30 p.m. program, open to the public without charge, is the Mid-Hudson Chapter of the New York Civil Liberties Union.

The film deals with the Sept. 1971 uprising at the Attica State Prison, documenting how prison inmates struggled for prison reform. It was produced and directed by Cinda Firestone.

In announcing the event, Sally Luther, Chapter chairman, stated: "What happened at Attica is of immediate concern to all citizens, especially those who are working to expose and reform conditions in prisons today, including the Dutchess and Ulster County jails. Accordingly, the film showing will be followed by a discussion of its approach and its implications for community action."

Participants in the discussion following the film will be ex-inmates, prison officials, and leaders of the community groups to include Matthew Fitzgerald of Dutchess Community College; Frederick Goodman of the Dutchess County Youth Board; the Rev. Charles Rich, director of Project Gateway; Alan Sussman, volunteer lawyer for six inmates of the Ulster County Jail who have recently filed suit against Sheriff William Martin; and spokesmen for South Forty, an ex-inmate help group.

Rhinecliff Bridge Shows Decrease

KINGSTON

The Kingston Rhinecliff Bridge showed a decrease of 22,558 vehicles last month compared to October of 1973, but officials from the New York State Bridge Authority attribute that primarily to the fact that the Rondout Creek Bridge was closed for repairs a year ago, forcing the use of alternative routes.

As proof they offer figures from the Poughkeepsie Mid-Hudson Bridge at Poughkeepsie which show an increase of 38,746, the only bridge in the system that showed an increase.

Overall traffic is up by 3.15 per cent with 2,126,482 crossings last month compared to 2,068,180 in October of 1973.

Revenues stayed virtually the same showing $636,106 last month compared to $636,310 in 1973.

The Rip Van Winkle Bridge at Catskill showed a traffic decrease of 4,202 for a total of 208,236 last month while the Newburgh Beacon Bridge had a traffic decrease of 3,708 for a total of 822,376. The Bear Mountain Bridge showed a traffic decrease of 1,606 for a total of 260,754.

Field Trip Set Sunday

WEST PARK

A Slabside Sanctuary field trip is planned Sunday, Nov. 10, by members of the John Burroughs Natural History Society.

Those interested in participating will meet 10 a.m. at the sanctuary. Directions are from Route 9W in West Park, follow Floyd Ackert Road, Burroughs Natural History crossing railroad tracks to junction of Burroughs Drive at the top of the hill. Participants may park on Floyd Ackert Road and are advised to bring a lunch.

Dr. Alfred Adams and Paul Huth will be in charge of the field trip which will emphasize pre-winter natural history of the sanctuary area including the pond.

The next field trip of the John Burroughs Natural History Society will be a hike on Peekamoose Valley Nov. 17. Details will be announced.

UNITED WAY FILMS — Three workers in the Ulster County United Way Campaign discuss plans to show a campaign film which is being presented throughout the area. They are left to right, Robert Grant, in charge of campaign training; Edward Shea, Director of personnel at

UCCC Faculty Seminar Series

STONE RIDGE The last in a series of monthly Faculty Seminars at Ulster County Community College, will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 12 at 1:40 p.m. The seminars, focusing on Global Trends in Education, are designed to bring together a cross section of the faculty for the purpose of sharing major trends developing in major specialized areas. This month's speaker will be Dr. Kenneth J. Hallam, Professor of Psychology at UCCC who will discuss the ethical and educational issues which will arise from efforts to improve human characteristics through genetic manipulations. His lecture, entitled, "Dr. Frankenstein's Problem in the 1970's" will focus on cloning — a "on-sexual technique for reproducing exact copies of humans. Dr. Hallam contends that cloning and other possible technological advances will thrust upon us questions such as: As we become capable of altering the very nature of mankind, should we accept our current limitations or boldly mold a future man with enhanced potentials and abilities? How far can we intrude into the human process without losing the essence of humanism? How will the decision be made? Who will make the decisions? The implications of educating future generations for these decisions will also be considered.

Professor Hallam, a Stone Ridge resident, obtained his B.S. and M.A. degrees from Bradley University and his Ph.D. from American University.

Furniture Design Course

STONE RIDGE Ulster County Community College is offering an Introduction to Furniture Design and Woodworking course on eight Monday nights, starting Nov. 18, at the Woodstock studio of the instructor, Stephen Robin.

The registration deadline is Nov. 11. This credit-free course is designed to give inexperienced persons an understanding of furniture design and construction. A few seats are still available in this class where students will have an opportunity to design and produce pieces of useful furniture and become skilled in basic wood-working techniques. The course is scheduled to end before Christmas.

The instructor holds a B.S. Degree in Industrial Arts and is a distinguished furniture maker.

Personal registration is possible at the Office for Continuing Education, the Clinton Administration Building on the Stone Ridge campus, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 6 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Songs of Change

Songs of Social Change will be featured at a program Saturday, Nov. 16 at the Cave-in Coffeehouse, 143 Main Street, New Paltz. Performers will be Bob Lusk, Linda Moldovin, Tom Siblo, Kim Nelson, Bobby Bindman and others. There will be singing sessions as well.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, which has been encouraged lately by declining interest rates, opened mixed today in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 1.33 to 670.60 shortly after the opening. Advances, however, led declines, 127 to 112, among the 361 issues crossing the tape. Turnover amounted to around 420,000 shares.

Lifting investors' spirits, First National City Bank of New York, second largest in the nation and a trendsetter, lowered its prime lending rate for key corporate customers to 10 1/2 percent from 10 3/4 percent. The rate reached a record 12 percent in July and worried Wall Street for months.

Analysts said the decrease in the money supply may reflect a toughening of the FED monetary policy which had been easing gradually the past several weeks.

Ad Correction

The price of the almond jubilee ring in a Spiesman's Bakery advertisement of Sunday, Nov. 3, was stated incorrectly as 69 cents. The correct price should have been 89 cents.

Shandaken Police Force Resigns in Furor Over Budget

ALLABEN daken's 1975 budget, after the Town of Shandaken is without a constabulary, or at least without any constables, which is almost the same thing. Shandaken Police Chief Jack Schlegel handed in his own resignation, and those of his five constables, at Thursday night's preliminary hearing on Shandaken's 1975 budget, after the town board failed to approve the budget request worked out by Schlegel and the town board's police committee.

The 1974 police budget in Shandaken ran about $34,000, $3.15. Dunn said that was the amount requested by the constables, at Thursday night's preliminary hearing on Shandaken's 1975 budget, after the town board failed to approve the budget request worked out by Schlegel and the town board's police committee.

New Paltz Professor to Be Honored

NEW YORK CITY — Dr. Amiya Chakravarty, one of the most distinguished faculty members at the State University of New York at New Paltz, will be honored Saturday at a banquet in New York City.

The philosophy professor is one of six persons cited by the Association of Indians in America for "unique contributions to arts and letters and to greater understanding between the peoples of India and America."

Among the patrons of the banquet are presidents of leading Indian societies in the United States and diplomatic representatives of India to the U. S. S. R. and the United Nations.

Chakravarty, who in 1970 was named University Professor by the State University of New York, has been professor of eastern philosophy at New Paltz since 1967. In 1970 the president of India conferred the Padma Bhushan National Award on him for his "great service to scholarship and literature both in India and abroad."

Although the members of the Police Committee, of the town board approved it, the majority of the town board voted against a $2,000 raise for Schlegel which would have brought him to $9,000 a year. The town board did approve a $1,000 raise for Schlegel, Dunn said, the same (percentage, 14.3), as for the amount granted the part time constables.

Dunn noted that the constables, in their negotiating, came down to $1,500, but apparently the town board was willing to go above $1,000.

"We're open to negotiations," Dunn said. "After all, police protection is our responsibility."

Dunn said he's received several phone calls from persons who want to serve as part-time constables but said he would not hire anyone "until we find out what these fellows (the constables who resigned), want to do."

Dunn, as expected, did not look favorably on the constables' sudden resignation. "I think it was very irresponsible," he said. "It sets a bad precedent."

Schlegel said that when the town board, after several votes Thursday night, would not go for salaries, which Schlegel said were "totally inadequate" already, he handed in the resignations. The resignations were all effective Thursday at midnight.

The town, despite the now total lack of local officers, will not be without police protection. Schlegel told the Freeman, after the resignations, that he had already contacted the State Police and the Ulster County Sheriff's Department to prepare them to answer Shandaken calls, and he said the town would continue to have "proper police protection."

Schlegel said there was a "large turnout" at the budget hearing, and that the majority of the townspeople there were "infuriated" at the town board's decision. He said the townspeople wanted the matter resolved, but he did not sound hopeful. "At the present time," he said, "it looks as if this is it."

The price of Boice's half and half in a Thursday advertisement for T. J. Prime Meats, Town Plaza, Route 32, Rosendale, should have been 9 cents for 1/2 quart, not 19 cents as shown.

Everyone is. Everyone of us has a different face, different abilities, different needs, different responses. Unitarians believe this uniqueness is vital. Each is encouraged to develop his "difference" by thinking his own thoughts, discovering his own truths and by respecting the differences in others.

If your "difference" needs growing room, the Unitarian Fellowship may be a good starting place for you. Find out.

Susan Robbins Is Bride of Phillip Hollenzer

MRS. PHILLIP G. HOLLENZER
(Susan V. Robbins)
(Lakeside-Studio)

Susan V. Robbins, step-daughter and daughter, respectively, of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edge, 204 Hurley Avenue, Kingston, became the bride of Phillip G. Hollenzer of East Kingston Saturday, Nov. 2 at Old Dutch Reformed Church. The bride is also the daughter of the late Charles R. Robbins. Her husband is the son of Mrs. June Christman and Frank Hollenzer of Long Island.

The Rev. Herbert Maynard and the Rev. Abraham Devries officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Fanny Rose, aunt of the bride, provided wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of imported satin faced organza fashioned with a high, sheer yoked neckline on the princess-styled bodice. A pleated organza panel with scalloped Venice lace edging created a vertical panel on the bodice and front of the A-line skirt. Similar lace trimmed the stand-up collar and seed pearl appliques accented the bodice and skirt. A double border of matching lace encircled the hemline, which swept back to form a cathedral length, built-in train. She wore a Venice lace Juliette cap with seed pearls accents to which was shirred her triple-tiered, chapel-length, silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade of gardenias, red, pink and white roses, accented with baby's breath.

Linda Robbins of Kingston was maid of honor for her sister. Attendants were Laurie Watzka, East Kingston; Colleen Daley, Saugerties; Celeste Rose, Ellenville; cousin of the bride; Sandra Davis, Mt. Marion, cousin of the bride; Barbara Edge of Kingston, step-sister of the bride, served as flower girl. Attendants wore burgundy polyester double-knit gowns with hoods. The flower girl's gown was fashioned with a polyester double knit burgundy skirt with a pink crepe bodice. She wore a headpiece of pink roses and carried a basket of matching roses. The maid of honor carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath. Each attendant carried a single pink rose with baby's breath.

Floyd Rose of Spring Glen was best man. Ushers were Steven Hollenzer, brother of the bridegroom, Great Neck, L.I.; John Beatie, Great Neck, L.I.; Steve Ferraro, Kingston; Richard Brown, Stone Ridge; Scott Christman, Seaford, L.I., step-brother of the bridegroom was ringbearer.

A reception was given at Walnut Grove, Kingston.

The bride, a 1973 graduate of Kingston High School, is employed by Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Her husband, a 1970 alumnus of Great Neck, North L.I. High School, attended Ulster County Community College, and is employed at the New York State Eastern Correctional Facility at Napanoch. The couple will reside at 244 John Street, East Kingston.

Hadassah Membership Dinner Held at Temple Emanuel

A large turnout, coupled with good food and an interesting program, made for a successful paid-up membership dinner for members of Hadassah. The event took place November 4 at Temple Emanuel, November being Hadassah Month. A large membership enrollment was received.

Peggy Schlossberg, program vice president, planned the menu assisted by Judith H. Robins, Shirley Crystal and Barbara Rosen. The program offered slides of Israel and the Hadassah installation in Jerusalem, presented by Sylvia and George Starkman and Anne Breier. Lee Markee, education vice president, reported on the Palestinian Liberation Organization. Hadassah cards have arrived and may be obtained from Dorothy Treinkman, chairman.

Hadassah will hold its new and nearly new shop November 11, 12 and 13 at Stuyvesant Hotel, corner of John and Fair Streets. Hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. On Monday, Nov. 11, the shop will be open until 9 p.m. Proceeds will benefit the Hadassah Medical Organization serving the people of the Middle East, Jews and Arabs alike. According to a local spokesman for Hadassah, it is the finest Medical Center in that area.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Loves her Husband But . . . Oh, his Son

DEAR ABBY: I married a man who was married before. Phil has a problem son who is now twelve. I have a daughter and son (9 and 11) by a previous marriage. I'm not saying mine are angels, but they respect me and have never been a discipline problem. Phil adores them, and they love him, too.

Phil and I have had this son of his every weekend and every holiday. He is a difficult child. He lies and steals and I'm afraid he will be a bad influence on my children.

Now Phil wants legal custody of his son so the boy can live here with us. Phil's ex will agree gladly because she can't handle him.

Abby, if that boy lives here he will ruin my marriage. Try as I do, I can't even like him. Much less love him. When Phil married me he didn't tell me I'd have to take his son.

Phil is pleading with me. He says he'll have the boy counseled. I am torn. I love Phil, but I don't want that boy living here. Can you help me?

TORN

DEAR TORN: Don't battle it out with Phil. Get some counseling to resolve all those hostile feelings about an unfortunate emotionally insecure (and possibly damaged) 12-year-old boy. The only thing the lad doesn't need is to be placed in a home where "mother" doesn't want him. He needs a lot of love. Please open up your heart to this boy and give him the same break your children have. TWO parents who love him. It could do wonders for him.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was married at one of the loveliest weddings this town has ever seen. We had everything planned down to the last detail, and nothing was left to chance. Needless to say, it cost us a lot of money, but it was worth it.

The morning of the wedding, the minister, who was to officiate, phoned to say he had FOURTEEN houseguests — his three daughters and their husbands, his mother and dad, and six grandchildren — and could he bring them to the wedding, the reception and dinner as well? We had planned a sitdown dinner after the reception.

I couldn't very well tell him he couldn't so I said yes. Abby, have you ever heard of such nerve? I am still upset about it, and wonder if there was any way to have turned him down politely without making an enemy of him for life. I later learned that two of his daughters were not "visiting" as he said they were. They had recently moved to town.

FUMING IN FLORIDA

DEAR FUMING: I can't say whether a negative response would have made an enemy of him for life, but you could have told him that you couldn't accommodate 14 ex ra.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have a healthy handsome, little five-year-old son. When people ask us when we're going to get a brother or sister for Joshua, we say: "We don't plan on having any more." (It's true. We happen to think that one is enough.)

Well, you should hear some of the remarks we get. "How can you raise a child all alone? You're selfish, you're lazy! You owe it to yourself to try for a girl. A mother isn't really a mother unless she has a daughter. You'll regret it later on!"

Our relatives and friends keep pressuring us to change our minds, but we're really very happy with one child. What can we say in our defense?

MOTHER OF ONE

DEAR MOTHER: What makes you think you have to say anything? Tell them you don't care to discuss it — then change the subject.

The Xi Alpha Omega Exemplar Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority hosted a Cocktail Party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Driscoll, 3056 Barbara Court, Saugerties, on November 3. Guests were Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Boice, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boucher and Mr. and Mrs. David Squires. Mrs. Boice, Mrs. Boucher and Mrs. Squires are members of the Eta Eta Ritual of Jewels chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in Kingston who are eligible to receive the Exemplar Degree.

Deegan-Sangi Engagement Told

Mrs. C. Robert Cousins of Kingston announces the engagement of her daughter, Patricia M. Deegan, to Salvatore Sangi, son of Mrs. Mary Sangi of Glasco and the late John Sangi. The announcement was made at a family dinner on Sunday, Oct. 27.

Miss Deegan is also the daughter of the late Robert C. Deegan. A spring wedding is planned.

FALL CHOIR FESTIVAL — The Rev. and Mrs. Harry Tysen of Woodstock will be the guest artists for the annual Fall Choir Festival sponsored by the Senior Choir at Atonement Lutheran Church, Market Street, Saugerties, on Sunday, Nov. 10 at 7:30 p.m. An augmented choir of approximately 85 voices will sing under the direction of Donald S. Fellows, choirmaster. The program will be concluded with a hymn. Public is invited to attend.

Guest Artists

Chapter members in attendance were: Miss Blanche Cartier, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gonyea, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hamsher, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kiegle, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Langton, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Martini, Miss Betty McManus, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Pagliaro, Mrs. Peggy Thatcher, and Mr. and Mrs. George Stone.

Xi Alpha Omega's regular monthly business meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Dunn, Kingston, on October 22. A cultural program was presented by Mrs. Mary Alice Linquist of the American Association of University Women and Mrs. Mary Jane Scanlon of the Board of Trustees of the Kingston Area Library Association. A film entitled "More than Just Books" was shown. It explained the various services offered by the Kingston Area Library.

The next business meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Richard Hamsher, Hillside Drive, Kingston, on Tuesday, Nov. 26, at 8 p.m.

Reasons Given For Hurley Boost

HURLEY bringing with it the necessity for a warden and sending the department's budget up from $1,100 to $7,925.

• The Social Services budget for home relief, up from $3,000 to $5,920.

• The Youth Recreation Program, reflecting an increase of rental for areas for summer recreation programs, up from $3,600 to $6,600.

The supervisor's salary remains at $4,200 and town councilmen stay at $1,500, but the two town justices are slated for $500 raises to $4,600. The board did slash salaries by $3,520, however, as a result of its decision to keep the two town justices on the town board instead of replacing them with two more councilmen. The board decided to rescind the change and stay with the present system after a taxpayer suit was successful in challenging the election of the two new councilmen this year.

Major increases included:

• The town's new dog ordinance passed last summer.

Dutchess Receives Road Safety Grant

ALBANY The plan calls for administering short examinations at the end of the school year and for providing appropriate information in the field of adult driver education.

The program will be conducted from Nov. 15, 1974 through June 30, 1975 under the direction of Virginia M. Martin, program coordinator.

Since 1967 the Interdepartmental Committee has allocated nearly $41 million for 682 local and statewide safety projects.

Approval of a $3,715 grant to help establish a highway safety public information program for Dutchess County has been announced by the Interdepartmental Traffic Safety Committee.

Chairman Arnold P. Fisher said these federal funds would aid the Dutchess County Traffic Safety Board's progress in accident prevention through the creation of a Planning and Administration office to prepare and distribute educational materials.

He said the grant was an increase from a previously allocated obligation of $3,600.

The application by Dutchess County Executive William Bartles said the new informational program would be directed primarily at children and would cover such areas as bicycles, safety, pedestrian safety and school bus safety.

Dancing Waters... Soaring Spectacle

By JON POWERS

PORT EWEN — Since its debut at Radio City Music Hall in 1952, millions have watched in wonder at the soaring intricate and colorful patterns that identify the "Dancing Waters" show. And it is the talented engineers and technicians, headquartered at an inconspicuous warehouse in Port Ewen, that have made "Dancing Waters" a worldwide attraction.

Few realize that Dancing Waters — which has performed at rural county fairs and the most opulent nightclubs in Las Vegas with equal splendor — has made its home in Ulster County since 1956. Although the firm's main sales office is located in Manhattan, it is in Port Ewen where the 33 Dancing Waters units are stored, where the watery ballets are choreographed, and where the skilled operators wait for assignments that take them to every corner of the continent.

"We do just about everything right here," said Bob Chase, who supervises the Port Ewen operation. "We make sure the units are in proper working order and we make repairs when necessary. We build units to different sizes and configurations, depending on where it's going and what it's going to be used for. And, we even have a custom fountain division for units that will be permanently installed at civic centers or parks."

Anyone who has seen Dancing Waters perform knows all that is easier said than done. A typical Dancing Waters unit consists of some 200 feet of pipe containing 1,800 individual jets that direct streams of water from 15 to 150 feet in the air. Philadelphia's Veteran's typical Dancing Waters show time to the music. It all takes from an organ-like console, the Stadium, where it explodes in will contain a number of an innate sense of rhythm, a familiar tunes (from "Battle Hymn of the Republic" to training and practice. fluctuating patterns of "dancing" each time a Phillie hits a home run. It was once booked at "Those Were the Days" and Obviously, they've done their water" bathed in a kaleidoscope of colors.

Dancing Waters was conceived by Otto Przystawik, a German inventor, it was unveiled in 1952 at the Industrial Exposition in West Berlin. Radio City Music Hall for eight weeks, and then made history when it was rebooked five more times in the next five years. And Dancing Waters was a regular guest on the Perry Como (remember him?) television show.

And what all those millions have seen these past two decades is the talented handiwork of a few people at the Port Ewen headquarters.

"I think we're all musicians and technicians at the same time," said Chase, "we do all the choreography right here, but we're constantly changing and rearranging our shows so that they don't become outdated."

Chase explained that the

Gourdine Named Deputy Commissioner

NBA Paves Way for Black Czar

RICHFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Kennedy said after the election. Simon P. Gourdine, NBA vice president-administration since Jan. 1973, was elected Deputy Commissioner of the National Basketball Association by a unanimous vote Thursday and given a three-year contract to man that post by the board of governors.

Gourdine, 34, of New York City, is the first man to hold the post, which has been vacant since its creation. In the absence of the Commissioner, who is now Walter Kennedy, Gourdine would take over his duties.

Gourdine, who needed approval from 14 of the 18 board members to attain the lofty position, became the highest ranking black in administrative sports last year when he was appointed to the NBA executive position. His election as deputy commissioner simply enhances his status.

"Simon has demonstrated extraordinary talents since joining the NBA in 1970," Kennedy said after the election.

SIMON P. GOURDINE

at least until the Jan. 14 All-Star game in Phoenix at which time another report will be submitted.

The league's expansion committee also discussed the three groups bidding for the Toronto franchise that is scheduled to go into action next season, but no progress was reported at this time.

"Some people like to say there is too much emphasis placed on the appointment or election of a black to a significant position," said Gourdine.

"However, I think especially in sports—which is essentially a gold fish bowl environment—the decisions and actions of its executives are closely watched and as a black person whose performance has also been very closely scrutinized, I am certainly happy to receive this vote of confidence from Commissioner Kennedy and the board of governors."

Gourdine was born in Jersey City, N.J., on July 30, 1940. He attended Commerce High in New York, then graduated from the City College of New York in 1962. He received a doctor of jurisprudence degree from Fordham Law School in 1965.

Gourdine then entered the armed forces and had a tour of duty in Long Binh, Vietnam. He left the service as a captain after two years in uniform.

After serving as an assistant U.S. Attorney, and also as a consultant in the legal department of the Celanese Corporation, he joined the NBA as assistant to the commissioner in 1970.

When the league restructured its top executive ranks in 1972, Gourdine was named Vice President of Administration.

Commenting on that appointment, Gourdine said: "I view this promotion from two perspectives—purely as a personal one and as a black man in America today."

"It is my fervent hope that in the future other blacks will have to see their promotions from one perspective, and that in a personal one."

Gourdine and his wife Patricia live in the Bronx, N.Y., with their sons, David, 4, and Peter, 1½.

Rockets' Coach Listened to Cliff

By United Press International
Houston Rocket Coach John Egan finally listened to Cliff Meely and it paid off.

Meely complained earlier this week that he was tired of sitting on the bench and wanted to be traded. Egan called him off the bench Thursday night and he responded with 11 points in the third quarter to spark the Rockets to a 103-93 victory over the struggling Milwaukee Bucks.

"I'm not happy at all," said Meely earlier in the week. "I hope they trade me. I know several teams who would be happy to have me."

Egan, who said he benched Meely, "because he was not playing well and wasn't producing," put the 6-foot-8 forward in to start the second quarter with the Rockets trailing by 13. Meely triggered a Houston burst of 17 straight points and the Rockets led at the half by seven.

Meely finished with 16 points. Rudy Tomjanovich led Houston with 22 and Zaid Abdul-Aziz (Don Smith) had 20. The Bucks, still without star center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, lost their ninth game. Bobby Dandridge had 23 points and George Thompson 22 for Milwaukee.

In other National Basketball Association action, the Atlanta Hawks edged the Phoenix Suns 109-108 and the Seattle SuperSonics beat the Golden State Warriors 104-93. The Utah Stars downed the Virginia Squires 107-90 in the only ABA game.

Hawks 109, Suns 108
Atlanta blew a 24-point second half lead but won on Dean Meminger's free throw with 12 seconds left. Charlie Scott scored 11 straight points to bring the Suns back before Meminger put the Hawks into the lead. John Brown had 24 for Atlanta while Scott and Keith Erickson each scored 31 for Phoenix.

Sonics 104, Warriors 93
Fred Brown scored 31 points, including six in the final 1:51, as Seattle stayed off a Golden State rally to win. The victory snapped the Warriors' six game winning streak and pulled the Sonics to within one game of first place Golden State in the Pacific Division. Rookie center Tom Burleson scored 17 points and had 13 rebounds for Seattle while Keith Wilkes, the Warriors' No. 1 draft pick from UCLA, scored a career-high 27 points, 12 in the final period, and also led all rebounders with 15.

Stars 107, Squires 90
Ron Boone hit a season high 36 points to lead Utah over Virginia. Boone was only two short of his career high. Rookie Moses Malone had 15 while former Star Glen Combs led the Virginia with 21.

Bruins Haven't Lost Their Scoring Touch

By United Press International
The Boston Bruins may not win the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup this season, but they certainly haven't lost any of their customary firepower.

The Bruins, currently in second place behind Buffalo in the NHL's Division IV, bombed out the expansionist Washington Capitals 10-4 Thursday night—the second game in three outings they have scored 10 goals.

In other NHL games Thursday, Los Angeles whipped Pittsburgh 5-3; Philadelphia shut out Minnesota 2-0, and Vancouver downed Kansas City 6-4. In the only WHA game, Indianapolis blanked San Diego 3-0.

Bruins 10, Capitals 4
Bobby Orr scored a three-goal hat trick and added three assists as the Bruins handed the hapless Caps their 10th defeat in 11 tries. Phil Esposito, Andre Savard, Dave Forbes, Wayne Cashman and Greg Sheppard also scored for Boston. On Sunday the Bruins ripped Minnesota 10-1 when Orr and Esposito scored a goal and three assists apiece.

Kings 5, Penguins 3
Goals by Tom Williams and Mike Corrigan 34 seconds apart midway through the second period broke up a 2-2 tie and helped extend the Kings' unbeaten streak to seven games. Dan Maloney, Frank St. Marseilles and Butch Goring also scored for Los Angeles, now 9-1 and seven points ahead of Montreal atop Division III.

Flyers 2, North Stars 0
Bernie Parent recorded his second shutout of the season behind goals by Rick MacLeish and Bill Barber. MacLeish scored his fifth goal of the season on a power play in the second period, while Barber gained his fifth on an empty net shot with 48 seconds remaining. The Flyers increased their Division I lead over the Islanders to three points.

Canucks 6, Scouts 4
Gerry Meehan broke away at 7:40 in the third period to snap a 4-4 deadlock and Chris Oddleifson added a goal to his three assists as the Canucks kept the expansion Scouts from taking their first victory at home. The Canucks had taken a 4-3 lead at :48 seconds into the final period on a power play goal by John Gould, but the Scouts roared back to tie the game at 2:54 on a goal by Ed Gilbert.

Racers 3, Mariners 0
Goal tender Andy Brown turned back 35 shots to post his shutout, the Racers' first WHA shutout. Ron Walters, Bob Whitlock and Brian McKenzie scored the Racers goals—all in the second period.

SURROUNDED? — Golden State Warriors' Rick Barry (24) and Charlie Johnson (24) seem to have Seattle's Fred Brown well covered, but Brown broke through the guard to score a basket in first period of Thursday night's Sonic victory. (UPI)

Worst H. S. Team Ever?

BRANDT, OHIO (UPI)—Bethel local high school, already being compared with some of the worst sports teams ever fielded, has a chance — admittedly very slim — of finally scoring some points in Friday night's football game and maybe staying out of Ripley's Believe It or Not.

Burdened with perhaps the worst football team in the country, Bethel winds up an unbelievably disastrous season Friday night.

Shut out through the first nine games by a total of 495 points to nothing, Bethel entertains DeGraff Riverside, which has been pretty bad itself. Riverside is only 1-9 and has scored just 38 points while giving up 194.

Bethel Local, a rural school of 450 students in this tiny western Ohio hamlet, has lost its games this season by scores of 40-0, 53-0, 92-0, 89-0, 50-0, 56-0, 36-0, 33-0 and 46-0.

Opponents have tried to hold down scores by playing freshmen and attempting field goals on first downs. Somehow, the diminutive Bethel players keep giving up points and scoring none.

Bethel fans have not been so bold as to hope for a win Friday night, but they're anxious for a score of some sort—Even a safety—just to have some reason to cheer.

Mercury Suspended After Injury Dispute

MIAMI (UPI) — Star Miami Dolphins running back Eugene "Mercury" Morris will face loss of pay and $200 in fines per day until Coach Don Shula decides to reinstate him into the team.

Morris was suspended from the squad Thursday in a dispute over treatment of the knee injury that has kept him sidelined for the past five games.

Shula has said he will reconsider the decision next Monday.

The coach of the Super Bowl champion team told newsmen he decided to suspend the speedy six-year pro after a "heated discussion" on Wednesday. That's when Shula upbraided Morris for failing to report to the team trainer Monday and Tuesday for supervised treatment of the injury.

"We got into a pretty heated discussion and finally he stood up and said, 'If you have to do anything, suspend me,' then he walked out," Shula told newsmen.

Morris was notified by telegram of Shula's decision.

The foot-footed runner injured the knee in the exhibition game against Green Bay, then aggravated the injury in the Sept. 29 confronted against San Diego. He has not returned to the lineup since, giving rookie Benny Malone a chance to prove his worth. Malone has been an outstanding performer in Morris' place, running for more than 100 yards in the last two games.

Morris, known as an outspoken player, said the incident with Shula resulted from a communications problem.

"It all happened so fast I'm not even sure about it myself," he said. "I thought coach left it up to the individual. After (Sunday's) game, he said those who needed treatment should get it and those who needed rest should rest."

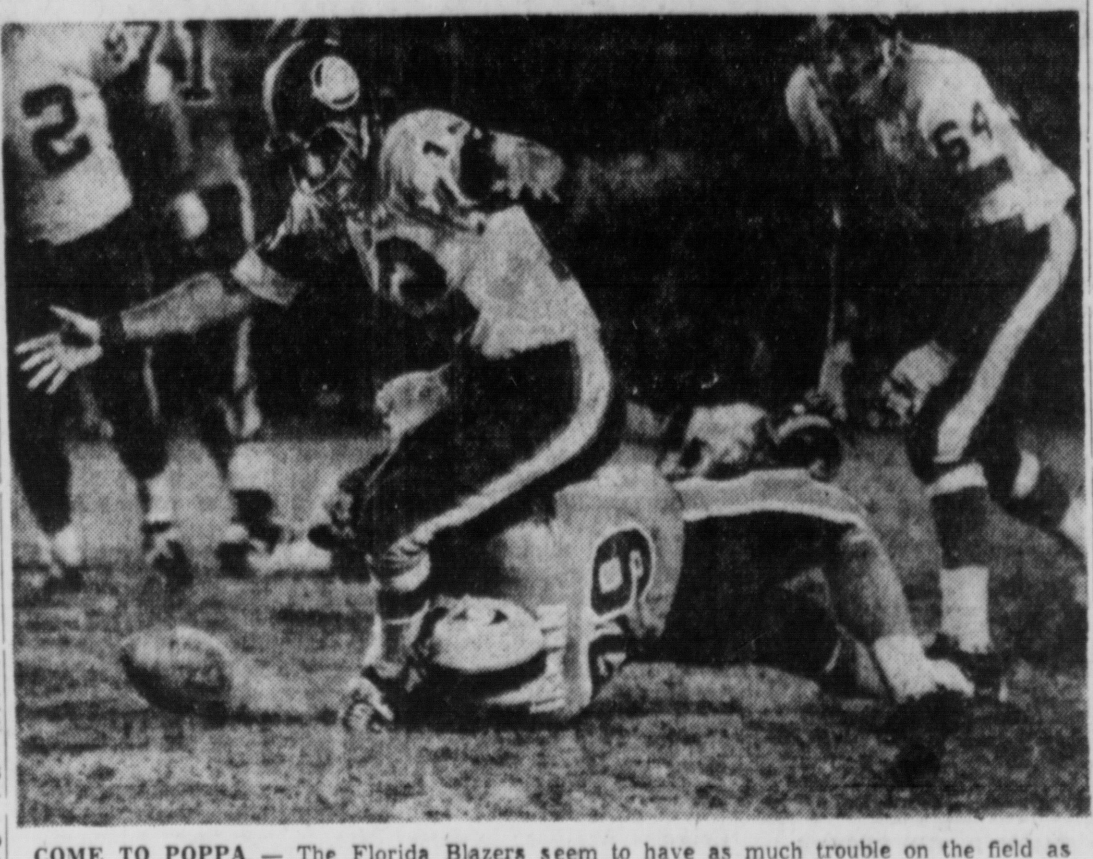

Shula gave uninjured players two days off.

"I worked out Monday (near his home) and I had the best workout I've had in a long time. I rested Tuesday thinking I would go in there Wednesday ready to play," Morris said.

However, Shula said Morris was "not anywhere close to being ready" to play.

"That's what makes this so frustrating," he said. "We know he's not ready to play, then he goes and misses the conditioning that he desperately needs."

Shula conceded that "Mercury's meant a lot to this team. He's important." However, the coach added the players work together in a team effort "and the team comes first ahead of the individual."

COME TO POPPA — The Florida Blazers seem to have as much trouble on the field as they do off as quarterback Bob Davis (12) loses the handle when hit by Storm's Jerry Inman (79) during WFL action. Both teams are having financial trouble and the Blazers have reportedly been sold.

Even a Lineman Scored!

The Memphis Southmen are so dominant in the World Football League that Thursday night they inserted an offensive guard at fullback and he scored a touchdown.

The Southmen have had problems at fullback since Willie Spencer, their 20-year-old rookie sensation, suffered a knee injury three weeks ago and was lost for the season.

Memphis led by 17 points with minutes to play Thursday night when offensive guard Bracy Bonham got a chance to play fullback against the Chicago Fire. The 6-foot-2, 242-pound guard, who last scored a touchdown in junior high school, promptly barreled into the end zone from six yards out for the final score in a 49-24 rout.

"I waved the ball and gave a little yell just to be courteous," he said. "I didn't want to show off or anything."

Bonham said he hoped to play fullback when the Central Division champions, now 16-3 with one regular season game to play, enter the WFL playoffs. But he said he's ready to play where needed.

Chicago players weren't looking ahead to the World Bowl, however, since their season may have ended with a 7-12 record and 10 straight defeats.

Owner Tom Origer said earlier this week that Chicago would skip its final game against Philadelphia and boycott the playoffs. Coach Jim Spavital said Thursday night he knew of no such thing.

Playoff hopes of both the Southmen and the Fire, if they decide to compete, suffered from the game. Chicago quarterback Bubba Wyche went out in the first quarter with a sprained and possibly broken ankle and the Southmen lost wide receiver Roger Wallace and cornerback Merl Code with knee injuries.

"It was a great victory," Memphis Coach John McVay said. "But an expensive one."

Memphis took the opening kickoff and drove 63 yards, with J.J. Jennings scoring from two yards out. Chicago came back with a 54-yard TD pass from Bill Cappelman to Lonnie Crittenden and a 59-yard scoring run by Cyril Pinder.

The Southmen picked up three points on a 27-yard field goal by Bob Etter and went into the lead to stay on a three-yard run by John Harvey. Jennings scored again in the second quarter from two yards out to give Memphis a 25-16 lead at the half. Harvey also scored on a 29-yard run and Chicago got a 29-yard TD pass from Cappelman to Bob Wyatt.

Memphis then turned the nationally televised game before 14,085 fans into a runaway with two touchdowns in the closing minutes. Danny White threw 29 yards to Edward Marshall for one score and set up Bonham's six-yard run with a 22-yard pass to Marshall.

In the only other WFL game, Shreveport, still managed to pummel the Portland Storm 23-0. The Blazers, who gained the East-

Dahlia Favored In International

LAUREL, Md. (UPI) — Dahlia, the darling of international racing, was just about everyone's favorite today to win the $150,000 Washington, D.C. International Saturday for the second time, but a pair of Frenchmen weren't ready to concede her a thing.

Dahlia, born in Kentucky but raced principally in France, was listed at 7-5 to duplicate her 1973 victory in the mile and a half classic over the turf at Laurel.

She has won stakes races in five different countries—France, England, Ireland, the United States and Canada. She has amassed $1,206,705 in earnings and current plans call for continued racing until she has topped Kelso's world record of $1,977,896.

The brilliant filly won the Canadiana Championship at Woodbine and the Man O'War stakes at Belmont Park within the last month. She has beaten Big Spruce, the strongest of three American horses, in the International last year and in the Canadiana Championship only two weeks ago.

But Dahlia never has raced against Margouillat or Admetus, two other horses from France among the nine starters in the 23rd running of the International.

"Dahlia never has been able to beat Allez France, never been able to get close to her," said Robert de Mony-Pajol, who trains Margouillat. "Twice my colt has been able to get within a length of Allez France, who in my opinion, is a better filly than Dahlia. Using Allez France as a yardstick, I can see no reason why Margouillat can't beat Dahlia."

Jack Cunningham, trainer of Admetus, has no such yardstick, but he pointed out that when his gelding ran against Margouillat in the Prix Dollar at Longchamp Admetus was beaten by less than a length.

"I have a good horse who has been working very well. You never can be certain about these things, but I believe Admetus has a good chance," Cunningham said.

Maurice Zilber, trainer of Dahlia, readily conceded his two French rivals are fine horses and that a very tough field has been assembled for this International.

Braves Deal Danny Frisella For Gaston

ATLANTA (UPI) —

The Atlanta Braves announced the trade Thursday of pitcher Danny Frisella to the San Diego Padres in exchange for outfielder Clarence Gaston.

Gaston, 30, had gone to San Diego from the Braves in the 1969 expansion draft. He was signed by the Braves in 1964 and had played with Atlanta from 1967 until his draft by the Padres.

Gaston hit .213 and had six home runs and 33 runs batted in in 106 games with San Diego last year. His best year was 1970 when he batted .318 and hit 29 homers.

Frisella went to the Braves two years ago in a trade with the New York Mets and had a 3-4 won-loss record with a 5.14 earned run average in 1974.

Marichal Says He'll Retire

SANTO DOMINGO, D.R. (UPI) —

Pitcher Juan Marichal said Thursday he was ready to retire, in commenting on his unconditional release from the Boston Red Sox.

Marichal, considered the best Dominican pitcher to play in the majors, told a local newspaper, El Nacional, that he could no longer put up with the pain in his back and hip.

Marichal was in traction early this year because of his back problem.

Marichal, 36, said he had also had problems with his pitching arm during the last two seasons.

He said if his arm improved he might seek a contract "with a team that is near San Francisco," where he has a home.

"But if I don't get what I want, I will retire. I can't complain. Baseball is all I have and all I am," Marichal said.

He ended the season with a 5-1 record for Boston. His lifetime record is 243 wins against only 141 defeats, making him the second winningest pitcher in the majors in modern times after Bob Gibson.

Marichal played in seven All-Star games, winning two of them and losing none.

Willie Likes DH Rule

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —

Willie Mays, who played baseball for 23 years, would have played a couple more if the National League had adopted the designated hitter rule.

He said here Thursday that he thinks the DH rule has been a success for the American League in that it prolonged the careers of stars like Tommy Davis, Al Kaline, Orlando Cepeda and Rico Cart.

He said in his final year for the New York Mets, he spent most of his time pinch-hitting.

"But after I pinch-hit for the pitcher, I was through for the day. If the National League had the DH rule, I could have played every day as a hitter. That would have been great."

Mays was here in his role as Goodwill Ambassador for the Help Young American Campaign. The program distributes money among six of the nation's youth groups.

Sports Authority Plans Expansion

NEW YORK (UPI) — Preempted by California as the No. 1 state in population, New York battled to gain par in professional athletics Thursday with the announcement that its Sports Authority is researching four projects designed to invite big league expansion.

The Authority is authorized to issue bonds up to $350 million to make funds available for acquiring, rehabilitating and constructing sports complexes in the state.

Currently, New York and California have the most professional franchises of any state. In baseball, New York has the Mets and Yankees. In pro football, there's the Jets and Buffalo Bills. The Knicks, Nets and Buffalo Braves in basketball and the Rangers, Islanders and Buffalo Sabres in hockey make up a 10 team ledger.

New York lost one team when the football Giants decided on a franchise switch across the Hudson River into New Jersey, but are playing out their "home" games in New Haven, Conn., until their new arena is constructed.

California goes four better than New York with the California Angels, Los Angeles Dodgers, San Francisco Giants, San Diego Padres and Oakland As in baseball; the Rams, 49ers, Raiders and Chargers in pro football, the Lakers and Cues in basketball and the Seals, Kings and Mariners in hockey.

The Authority, born through legislative enactment, already has four major projects under consideration.

Buffalo, successful with three other major professional sports, is anxious to field a big league baseball team and the Authority could be asked to help in the financing of a domed stadium to house a National or American League franchise.

Mt. Vernon, in Westchester County, is bidding to go big time in sports with a major complex and officials there are seeking $235 million from the Authority.

Brooklyn, once a national household word when the Dodgers played at Ebbets Field, is seeking to recapture the glamor days with a Madison Square Garden type arena, and the Nassau-Suffolk area on Long Island looms as a potential sports center with a population of three million people to draw upon.

There is also the complex that Lake Placid will have to build for the 1980 Winter Olympics and will require more than the $30 million ticketed from government.

"We are the funding mechanism for new stadiums and old arenas," said Jack Diller, the Authority's first president. "The Authority, through its financing powers and through its awareness of sports facility construction and operation throughout the United States, will be able to offer vitally needed assistance to projects instituted by the cities, counties and towns of New York State."

Diller, who gained first hand knowledge of cost factors as an attorney with Madison Square Garden Corp., said "the 2,500-seat facility will receive as much attention as the 65,000-seat stadium and be judged equally on the merits of funding needed."

Edwin M. Schwenk, the Sports Authority chairman, said 30 inquiries already have been received from local governments requesting possible sports assistance. The first order of business, however, will be to review the present status of existing sports facilities in the state.

Schwenk emphasized that the Sports Authority will deal only with municipalities and there would be no funding for private arenas, such as the Garden or Nassau Coliseum in Uniondale, N.Y.

RUNAWAY MOUNT—Jockey Humberto Aguilera pulls reins in attempt to stop runaway mount "Lovenia," an instant before horse and rider crashed into fence (R) after ninth race at Monmouth Park, Oceanport, N.J., Thursday. Man (C) gets out of the way. Lovenia finished in a dead heat for third money but became fractious while galloping back to unsaddling area and smashed into the rail. Aguilera was moved to nearby Monmouth Medical Center for a checkup. Lovenia was apparently uninjured in the mishap. (UPI) Rosewall, seeded second, advanced into the quarter-finals Wednesday for today's final match with Carmichael by 7-5 and a 5-1 default.

ROME (UPI) — The International Lawn Tennis Federation officially awarded the 1974 Davis Cup to South Africa Thursday night following India's refusal to play the South Africans in the finals.

The Federation's Davis Cup Committee also rejected proposals to either adopt sanctions against India for its decision or expel South Africa because of its racial policies.

Tenpin Roundup

Suski 718, Van Gaasbeck 636

KINGSTON — There are new occupants in third place in both the men's and women's division of the Top Ten bowling standings in the area.

Jim Suski blasted a 718 series off games of 224, 226 and 268 in the Independent Tavern League. It was the third "700" set of the 1974-75 season, behind Lonnie Zimmerman's 755 and Chris Schick's 720.

Pat Van Gaasbeck, a regular member of the Top Ten, rolled 632 on lines of 212, 186, 234 in the Monday Mixer to take third place behind Joan Jameson (641) and Ann Cummings (636).

Roger Brandt, still running a hot hand, fired 660 off 217, 732, 211 in the Friday Night Mixer. Len Riggins was runnerup to Suski with 234-612. Tom Hines and George Magley posted 604 each.

International League bowlers accounted for nine 600 triples, with Chris Schick's 666 leading the pack. Kildy Corrado rolled 640, Bob Shelighner 616, Ken LaCasse 615, Vince Carpio 269-611, Bill Beckert 610, Bud Lowe 601, Charles Manfro 244-611 and Denny Bart 601.

Hoople Picks Sawyers Over Kingston

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Fearless Forecaster
HOOPLE MANOR
Egad, friends, the woods — heh-heh—are full of outstanding football contests this weekend. Enough, indeed, to satisfy even the zaniest football filberts!

Before we get into them, might we remind you that our average is climbing again (now up to .638) and will no doubt continue to rise until the season concludes, har-rumph!

In order to show you how the average will ascend, we must present picks, so the picks are on their way:

SAUGERTIES 12, KINGSTON 6

This is the first time we've leaned towards Saugerties in the three-year history of this event, but we just can't choose Kingston any longer. Too many times we have backed the Maroons only to watch them suffer defeat. Let's just say the Saugerties defense is too tough for KHS.

RONDOUT 28, ELLENVILLE 7

The Ganders get on the winning track again following last week's loss (you read it here first) to Red Hook. No reason to think the Ellies will extend

'Round and 'Round

their modest one-game victory

RED HOOK 34, MARLBORO 0

Red Hook can just about taste the championship now that it has beaten Rondout. Only over-confidence can possibly hurt the Raiders and we don't think they'll be overconfident at this stage of the season.

NEW PALTZ 35, ONTEORA 7

The up and down Hugies were up again last week and should be able to inflict some damage on Onteora's porous defense. card. Wallkill has a mighty Baylor 14; Cornell 24, Brown 7; The Indians were respectable in tough defense while Liberty has Kansas 21, Colorado 16; Dartmouth 7, Columbia 0; Florida 24, Georgia 21; Michigan 24, Illinois 20; Nebraska 33, Iowa 13; Wisconsin 26, Iowa 13; Maryland 24, Villanova 7; Ohio State 34, Michigan State 17; Navy 33, Citadel 6; Penn State 26, North Carolina State 24; Oklahoma 42, Missouri 21; Yale 28, Penn 6; Pitt 21, Temple 20; Air Syracuse 31, West Virginia 28; Force 27, Army 12; Texas 34, and UCLA 17, Oregon 10.

Hawks Close On Happy Note

NEW PALTZ saves to keep the Hawks in having ended on a strong note with a long-awaited win, New Paltz State's Peter Van Geem is looking ahead to next year.

"I think there is a future here," the young Hawk coach said following a 1-0 season-ending victory over Baruch College of New York City. New Paltz first win after 10 losses and two ties.

"I've been talking individually to the players and most plan on returning. Right now I'm going to hit the recruiting trail. I think I'll be concentrating on the local area. I've seen some sectional games and I've seen talent there. I think the interest in New Paltz also is there."

Van Geem was more than willing to accept the Baruch win even though his team had played better in some earlier games and had been defeated.

"Baruch wasn't as bad a team as I was led to believe," Van Geem stated. "They had three or four very good players, but their problem was that they didn't play that well together."

Still, Baruch tested New Paltz goalie Jan Soodak and forced him to make several outstanding

"Soodak definitely was our outstanding player," Van Geem said of the sophomore goalie from Brooklyn.

John Vitale scored the winning goal at 15 minutes of the second half when he blasted in a rebound of a shot by Faubert Tessier.

"We played a little better offensively than we have in the past," said Van Geem. "but I guess some of that could be due to Baruch's weakness."

YOUR SNOW TIRES COULD BE YOUR WORST ENEMY.

If you come to us with radial tires on your car, and ask for a set of our regular snow tires, we won't sell them to you.

You can't mix and match when it comes to tires.

You make a sudden stop with that kind of combination on your car and you just might find yourself in somebody's backyard.

We don't want that to happen.

So we recommend the right tires for you.

We're The Sunoco Tire Store.

We sell all kinds of snow tires.

Nylon, polyester, glass belted, steel radials, the works.

And, as a participating Sunoco dealer, we balance every tire we sell.

Three Treated At Hospital
Three Queens men were treated and released at Kingston Hospital early today after a near brush with death due to carbon monoxide poisoning on the Thruway. Thruway troopers said that at about 2 a.m. they found the three men lying on the ground near a car at a rest area one mile south of Saugerties. Three other men were standing over them, troopers said. According to police the three unconscious men had been seated in the back seat of an auto on the Thruway and were overcome by exhaust fumes. The other three men, who were riding in the front seat, dragged them out of the car at the rest area. The three injured men, identified as Joseph Gallo, 23, George Harmon, 18, and Timothy Kalb, 19, were taken to Kingston Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance. They later recovered and were released from the hospital. Troopers said they were told the three men in the front seat of the car had at first thought their companions were sleeping. In another ten minutes they would have been gone, one trooper said of the victims.

Bickel Dies, Law Expert

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—Alexander Bickel, one of the nation's leading constitutional law experts, died Thursday of cancer. He was 49. A spokesman at Yale, where he had been a member of the faculty since 1956, said Bickel had been confined to his home as he battled the disease. Bickel, a liberal in politics and a conservative in the law, was a highly respected authority on the Supreme Court and the Constitution. He disagreed with President Ford's decision to grant Nixon a full pardon for any crimes committed during his administration, but said at the time, "Nixon's resignation is essential to restoring stability in the nation and a properly functioning government."

A native of Romania whose family migrated to New York City, Bickel was consulted on key issues during the unfolding Watergate scandals. One of his most controversial opinions was that former President Nixon had the constitutional right to fire special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox because as prosecutor he was an instrument of the White House. He was a graduate of City College of New York and went to Harvard Law School. Bickel was the author of a number of books, among them, "The Supreme Court and the Idea of Progress," published in 1970. The book criticized the high court under Earl Warren in the 1950s. Bickel is survived by his wife, Joanne Natolino Bickel, and their daughters, Francesca Ann and Claudia Rose.

Movie, Dance

Kennedy Dead, Worked at Local Station

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bob Kennedy, host of two talk shows on an ABC-TV affiliate in Chicago and a pioneer of the open telephone line radio program, died Wednesday of cancer of the lymph glands. He was 42. Since the spring of 1970, Kennedy had been host of Kennedy and Company, an early morning talk show, and Kennedy at Night, a midnight interview show, on WLS-TV. He began his career in upstate New York. A graduate of Fordham University, Kennedy joined the staff of WKNY radio in Kingston, N.Y., after his discharge from the Air Force in 1958. In 1959, he joined radio station WOLF in Syracuse, N.Y., as a newsman. Later, he was a television host on WJEN in Albany, N.Y., where he met and married the show's executive producer. Kennedy's idea for an open telephone line to listeners took him to WBZ radio and TV in Boston. He then went to KABC radio in Los Angeles where he continued the open telephone line program format for several years before being chosen to host "Kennedy and Company" in 1970. Funeral services were scheduled for Saturday in Dedham, Mass.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGES IN TELEPHONE RATE SCHEDULES

Notice is hereby given that the following proposed changes in telephone rate schedules have been filed with the Public Service Commission, to be effective December 1, 1974.

This filing will provide for the direct electrical connection, without protective connecting arrangements, to Telephone Company-provided facilities, of that class of customer-provided terminal equipment known as automatic answering sets, provided that the manufacturer or supplier, and customer conform to the procedures and guidelines set down in the proposed tariff revisions. This connection will be made via interface terminations, the rates and charges for which are shown below.

Interface termination to accommodate connection of a Conforming Answering Device Incorporating an Authorized Protective Connecting Module:

The existing installation charge for a standard indoor jack ($14.48), or outdoor jack ($25.03), for the termination of one line applies, as specified in Tariff P.S.C. No. 800-Telephone.

Single-line Charges based on cost.

Multi-line (JTA) Charges based on cost.

NOTICE OF CHANGE IN GAS RATE SCHEDULE

Pursuant to an order of the Public Service Commission of the State of New York issued September 18, 1974, tariff provisions have been filed which modify General Information Section 17, Adjustment of Rates.

Changes in the Cost of Gas, of P.S.C. No. 11—Gas. The principal effect of the modification is to increase the cost of gas estimated to be purchased under each such contract or estimated to be manufactured from stock supplies in the computation of the average cost of gas. In addition, the refund provision is modified to provide that appropriate refunds will be made in the event the estimated quantities used in the computation of the average cost of gas result in excess revenues to the company.

INVITATION FOR PROPOSALS

SECTION 23

ASSISTANCE PAYMENTS

PROGRAM NEW CONSTRUCTION

The Kingston Housing Authority of Kingston, New York invites developers and builders to submit proposals for the development of privately owned housing to be assisted by housing assistance payments pursuant to Section 23 of the U.S. Housing Act of 1954, as amended.

1—The development will consist of 70 units of efficiency with alcove and 30 units of 1 bedroom designed to be constructed in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Area. The construction shall not exceed $259.00 per month for the efficiency units and $313.00 per month for the 1 bedroom units.

2—Developers may submit proposals for locations within the boundaries of the Broadway East Urban Renewal Area. However, in its selection the Authority has the right to favor any proposal which is combined with the construction and development of neighborhood shopping stores in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Area. The housing need is not to be constructed in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Area, however, a site would be made available thru the Urban Renewal Agency. The Davis Bacon Act may be applicable.

3—Proposals will be opened by the Authority on December 3, 1974 at 2:00 p.m. Detailed guidelines, standards and procedures for the development of these units are contained in the "Developer's Packet" which may be obtained by interested developers and builders from the Housing Authority, whose address is Colonial Gardens, Flatbush Avenue, Kingston, New York 12401.

Your Astrograph

Saturday, Nov. 9, 1974

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're capable of getting quite a bit accomplished today if you set your mind to it. Do things that are worthwhile and productive.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Plan something social but don't involve yourself with too large a group. Just have a few older friends you're comfortable with.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You should be pretty good at getting a real run for every dollar you spend, especially if you're shopping for household needs.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Handle quickly any serious correspondence that needs attending to. You'll feel better once it's out of the way and in the mail.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If the week's budget has left you with a little surplus cash, tuck it away safely. You'll be wanting it later for something useful.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're setting a schedule for yourself of things you want to do. It's not likely you'll let anyone or anything interfere with it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Something that will help further a personal ambition will be told to you in confidence. Don't tell others about it yet.

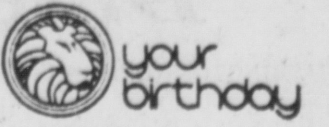

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something you're hoping for may sound like a pipe dream to someone else, but if you stay on your course it's likely to become a reality.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll do very well today if you deal with persons who are older or those who share something of a serious nature you're interested in.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Stand firm on a decision you're recently made. Your position is the right one. Time will later attest to the fact.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're entitled to compensation for something you've done for others. The bill is overdue. It should be brought to her attention.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is a good day to iron out the rough spots in order to solidify a relationship that's important to you. Don't put it off.

Nov. 9, 1974

Much of your time will be spent this year in pursuit of new knowledge to further your hopes and ambitions. It will prove to be a good base on which to build a healthier bank account.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

THE END: (Q) Last night Chip wouldn't talk to me. I asked him what was wrong and he just mumbled. Then I asked him if he wanted to call it off with me and he said yes.

I am really heartbroken and I want him back although I know I will never get him. He said he can't settle down. I can't stop crying either. How could I get him back?—Crying in Michigan.

(A) You wrote the day after Chip gave you the news. Naturally you were crying and felt sad. By now you should feel much better. You may even be checking out some other boy. That is what you should be doing.

Don't waste any more tears on Chip. Remember him fondly, but don't try to resurrect something that is gone.

DISOWNED: (Q) Ben and I were planning to get married. Then I got pregnant. My mother found out and had a nervous breakdown. My father disowned me, kicked me out, and is trying to get somebody to put Ben in jail.

I am living with Ben and his mother. His father is dead. Ben is 18 and I am 15. What should I do? If I try to go home I will be beaten.—No Home in Pennsylvania.

(A) Ask Ben and his mother to go with you to talk to your father. He won't try to beat you when he sees you have their help.

Talk it out with him. Point out to him that if Ben should go to jail you should too, because you are as responsible for this pregnancy as he is.

Although you are very young for it and would have to have your parent's permission, marriage may be your solution.

(Write to Jean Adams care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 1492, Kingston, N.Y. 12401. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received Jean Adams cannot send personal answers.)

Small Cards Play Big Role

East played low and South's eight lost to West's queen.

West knocked out dummy's ace of hearts, whereupon South led the jack of diamonds; finessed against East's king; led dummy's last diamond and wound up with two hearts, four clubs, three diamonds and all the marbles.

Note that South had to remember to lead the eight not the deuce of clubs and a small diamond, not the jack when he started that suit.

"Our, out damned spot" might be a good title for today's hand.

South wasn't happy with the opening lead or with the dummy, but happy or unhappy he had to play the hand.

He started with a successful heart finesse. It was apparent that he would need a lot of luck in the minor suits so he started by carefully leading his eight of clubs—not the deuce.

Up with dummy's ace and back for a successful finesse of the jack. Now he cashed the king and led that carefully preserved deuce to dummy's six spot.

Now he was ready to attack with a happy smile, one of his diamonds. He did so by leading customers has bought white a low diamond from dummy.

Kissinger Strives for Sinai Pullback Talks

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger approached the end of his Middle East peace mission today, trying to arrange a new round of Israeli-Egyptian talks for troop pullbacks in the Sinai Desert.

negotiations with Israel in the very near future. The newspaper said Egypt wanted to send a military-level team to the proposed talks, but the Israelis would be sending a political delegation, apparently to include military experts. The newspaper said the most likely location for the talks was Washington, where Kissinger could be close at hand. It said negotiations could begin by the end of this month, minimizing the danger of a slow n that could increase the threat of fighting. Kissinger met with Israeli leaders Thursday night at Rabin's home outside Jerusalem. He discussed last week's Arab summit conference in Rabat and its decision to authorize the Palestine Liberation Organization to set up an independent state on territory Israel might surrender. "We reviewed the situation in a very friendly atmosphere and we're looking at all the possibilities that exist after Rabat," Kissinger said after the meeting. "We're not doing this in any contemptuous spirit but as people who are solving common problems and who are certain to find common ap

Kissinger flew to Tunisia today for talks with President Habib Bourguiba. He was to return Saturday to Washington. U.S. sources said Kissinger was heartened by the strong endorsement Egyptian President Sadat gave his diplomatic efforts Tuesday. Sadat told newsmen that "the roads toward progress are still open" and the secretary's efforts are "needed much more than ever before" to bring peace to the Middle East.

Brief Coal Strike Considered Inevitable

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Coal miners could win a new contract before this weekend is over, but a brief strike is still considered inevitable. "We are now moving into another stage of our negotia tions," a management spokesman said Thursday. The UMW has a "no contract, no work" rule, and the current contract would expire Nov. 12, before a new contract could be ratified — even if tentative agreement were reached this weekend. The ratification process takes 10 days. The 1,200 mines and 120,000 workers involved produce about 70 per cent of the nation's coal. During a breathing spell in the talks Thursday Guy Farmer, chief negotiator for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, was asked if he anticipated a long strike. "I do not," he said. "I don't think anyone wants one." Farmer said he did not believe the strike would create an energy shortage or other emergency situation that could prompt President Ford to seek a back-to-work court order, and UMW president Arnold Miller agreed. "I would certainly hope it doesn't come to that," Farmer said. "We should be able to make an agreement by Sunday — the end of the day Sunday. We are now moving into another stage of our negotiations." "To be frank about it I don't even keep track of what day of the week it is," said Miller.

who often reminds reporters that he's been at it for 63 days. Miller said some questions were "resolved in principle but we're talking about money. They haven't been resolved in money yet."

The talks began Sept. 3 when the miners presented about 200 demands. Senior miners make from $41.25 to $50 a day but their gripes have focused on safety and treatment.

Food Conference...Few Hear Grim Warning

ROME (UPI) — The delegate from Bangladesh stood up solemnly and warned the World Food Conference that mass starvation could lead to a cataclysmic degeneration of human society.

But only a smattering of delegates showed up at the conference hall to hear him. Many skipped the grim speech to attend a glass-clinking cocktail party in a room next door.

Bangladesh Agriculture Minister Abdus Samad Azad looked out at the nearly empty hall Thursday night and said failure to combat the threat of famine would be "a long-lasting crime against man and God."

"Looking beyond the immediate, one may discern that starvation and malnutrition are not only eroding the efficiency of the work force in the developing world, but are also leading to a genetic degeneration," he said.

Scores of other delegates chose to chat lightly over Scotch and soda, vermouth on the rocks and gin and tonic next door at a cocktail party hosted by Ghana.

The steady hum of party chatter and the clink of glasses wafted through the blue curtains separating the reception from the assembly hall as Azad spoke.

Bolivia Fighting Continues

LA PAZ (UPI) — President Hugo Banzer led loyalist paratroopers into the rugged mountains of eastern Bolivia today to combat die-hard army units that rebelled against his military government.

Dissident members of two major political parties and two army regiments forcibly seized radio stations and public buildings in Santa Cruz early Thursday at the start of the rebellion.

Banzer led a fleet of army transport planes carrying loyalist paratroopers and teams of sharpshooters Thursday to the Cochabamba Air Force Base outside Santa Cruz. From there, he took the troops into the city.

Only about 50 of the more than 1,000 delegates showed up to hear Azad warn of a world with "two classes of human beings — one affluent, aggressive and authoritarian, the other depressed, servile and degraded."

Banzer reported crushing the uprising, but censors permitted newsmen to send out terse cables saying government mop-up operations were taking longer than anticipated.

The government said the rebels also took over Montero, a boom town of 160,000 in the country's rapidly developing bush country about 30 miles north of Santa Cruz.

Officials in La Paz reported the government in full control within four hours, but silenced all radio broadcasts and imposed absolute censorship on
